Ballots by the increasing millions added up today to four more years in the White House for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

With presidential election returns hourly becoming more complete, tabulations which included final unofficial reports for some states, showed Mr. Roosevelt ahead in 39 states with a total electoral vote of 468.

Wendell L. Willkie admitted defeat and wired his congratulations to President Roosevelt. The Republican candidate held a lead in 9 states having 63 electoral votes.

The wide Roosevelt margin was eloquent of the decision a majority of the electorate had rendered in choosing between their present Chief Executive and the nation's third term tradition which, for 150 years, had stood as a barrier against more than two terms in the White House for any man.

It was the first time the ancient precedent received a clear-cut test at the polls, and for the legion of Roosevelt voters the result was what they had anticipated in the light of disturbed world conditions.

In great states and small, from New Hampshire to California, the citizens who exercised democracy's right to franchise rejected the candidacy of Willkie by an overwhelming electoral majority and returned the New Deal to Washington with possibly greater power than heretofore.

Late reports indicated some additional seats in the House and Senate were gathered up in the Democratic vote harvest.

DEMS GAIN SEATS

With more than half of the 432 congressional contests decided the Democrats had a net gain of seven House seats.

Thirteen Democrats and five Republicans were elected to the Senate—where a Democratic majority was certain anyway—but close senatorial races developed in half a dozen states.

The race continued to attract attention in several of the pivotal states with New Jersey, Michigan and Wisconsin showing a swing to Roosevelt.

Roosevelt took a lead in New Jersey over Willkie after 8 a. m. Constantly whittling an early 85,000 edge of the Republican candidate, Roosevelt forged ahead, 989,200 to 928,247 in unofficial returns from 3631 of New Jersey's 3631 districts.

In Wisconsin 2802 precincts out of 3038 gave Roosevelt 641,301, Willkie 628,724.

New York State delivered its 47 electoral votes—largest single block in the nation—to Roosevelt after

PRESIDENT FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

Re-elected to Third Term

WILLKIE WIRES CONGRATULATIONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—President Roosevelt's election was conceded in mid-morning by Wendell L. Willkie, his dogged, hard-hitting Republican opponent, who had made the third term question one of the two outstanding issues of a slam-bang campaign.

At 10:30 a. m., Willkie's press secretary, Lem. Jones, gave out the text of this congratulatory telegram:

"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT,
"PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,
"HYDE PARK, NEW YORK.

"Congratulations on your re-election as President of the United States. I know that we are both gratified that so many American citizens participated in the election. I wish you all personal health and happiness. Cordially, WENDELL L. WILLKIE."

Throughout last evening Willkie sat in his hotel room, analyzing the return and watching the President amass commanding leads in virtually all the key states having big blocks of electoral votes. Grimly he clung to a dwindling hope of victory, but finally he retired.

After breakfast this morning in his hotel suite, the Republican nominee made a final survey of the returns and then called one of his secretaries to dictate the message. Although he had lost in his spectacular bid for the Presidency, Willkie expressed satisfaction today that the race had been close in many states, that he had apparent-

Saltonstall's Lead Over Dever Cut; Walsh Tops Ticket With Big Margin

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 6, 1940

Climaxing a tense seesaw race through a night and day of tabulations, Gov. Saltonstall was running ahead of Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever in the Massachusetts gubernatorial contest today.

Though at one time Saltonstall had a lead of over 31,000 votes on Dever, early tabulations today cut his lead to 20,000 votes, and then more complete results showed that the governor had a lead of only 4686 votes.

With returns from 1698 out of 1810 precincts throughout the state—and the total Boston vote included—the tabulation showed: Saltonstall, 944,044; Dever, 939,260.

The battle for the governorship was the main feature of the election in Massachusetts, one of four New England states won by President in his national sweep to become the first third-term President in United States history.

Regardless of the outcome of the governor's race, it was definitely assured today by both sides that a recount would be asked under the law which allows a recount when the pluality is less than one per cent of the total vote.

Atty.-Gen. Dever, spurred by the interest returns in his favor, stated:

"Maybe the other side will have to demand a recount." Spokesmen said that Dever would demand the recount in the event he lost.

With the gubernatorial fight close, the Bay State was running up a plurality of over 12,000 votes for Roosevelt over Wendell L. Willkie.

The same number of precincts as for Governor gave Roosevelt 951,571 ballots; Willkie, 899,248.

WALSH SWEEPS STATE

Massachusetts had also re-elected Democratic U. S. Sen. David I. Walsh by a margin of close to 200,000 votes, the veteran Senator topping the tickets.

After digressing long enough to give President Roosevelt and Sen. Walsh commanding victory margins, Massachusetts swung into line to elect Republicans to all major offices.

With Governor Saltonstall leading toward a second term on Beacon Hill, returns showed that his Republican partners of the last two years would be back.

In addition, the Republicans won the post vacated by Atty.-Gen. Dever with a victory by Robert T. Bushnell, former Middlesex County district attorney, who proved himself a strong vote-getter in his first bid for State office.

Lieut.-Gov. Horace T. Cahill ran well ahead of his Democratic opponent, Owen A. Gallagher of Dorchester, former street commissioner and Mayor Mansfield.

Bushnell also was up with the Republican leaders in outdistancing Atty. James H. Brennan, Democrat, former member of the Governor's Council.

ONLY WOMAN LOSES

Frederic W. Cook of Somerville, who has never failed to be re-elected secretary of state since 1921, again was winner by an easy margin over the only woman contesting for a major state office, Mrs. Katherine A. Foley of Lawrence.

State Auditor Russell A. Wood was running neck and neck with Thomas J. Buckley, the "man nobody knew." It was Buckley, former WPA worker, who won a surprise primary victory in the Democratic ranks.

State Treasurer William E. Hurley, who first won his post after a Roosevelt appointment supplanted him as Boston's postmaster, again was returned victor. He ran comfortably ahead of City Treasurer John J. Donahue of Somerville, the Democratic nominee.

38 P. C. OF HUB VOTE
Throughout the nation's tabulation, Saltonstall and Dever fought a close battle for supremacy, but with a surprise feature the strength shown by Gov. Saltonstall in Boston.

G.O.P. LOSES CONGRESS SEAT HERE AS ELIOT BEATS LUCE

Democrats captured one of the Republican districts in Massachusetts today, giving them six seats in Congress to nine for their G. O. P. opponents.

New Dealer Thomas H. Eliot, grandson of the late Pres. Emeritus Charles W. Eliot of Harvard University, upset Cong. Robert Luce of Waltham in the Ninth District.

With all except 17 of the 120 precincts counted, Eliot was leading 71,843 to 61,187. There were not enough votes in the balance to change the final result.

Veteran Cong. George Holden Tinkham had a fight on his hands in the Tenth District, too, but with all precincts in, drew away from Democratic Rep. Davis Owens of Roxbury, 79,174 to 53,911.

CASEY IS VICTOR

For a time, Cong. Joseph E. Casey (D) of Clinton, was having quite a struggle to beat out Mayor Edward T. Simons of Marlboro for the third district seat, but Casey finally won, 72,391 to 60,614. This vote is complete.

Cong. Allen T. Treadway (R) of Stockbridge was an easy victor in the 1st district and so was Cong. Charles R. Clason (R) of Springfield, in the 2d.

Cong. Edith Nourse Rogers (R) was returned in the 5th district. In the 6th, Cong. George J. Bates of Salem handily topped his Democratic opponent, James D. Burns, also of Salem. Complete returns gave Bates 83,811, Burns 53,737.

CONNERY RE-ELECTED

In the seventh district Cong. Lawrence J. Connery (D) of Lynn was winner, in complete returns, over William Henry Haskell of Lynnfield, 90,038 to 52,701.

Cong. Arthur D. Healey (D), running for his fifth consecutive term, appeared to be having no trouble beating former Mayor John J. Irwin of Medford for the eighth district seat.

Edith Rogers Thomas Eliot

With all but seven precincts of Everett and the vote of Medford uncounted, Healey had 49,217, Irwin 35,524.

In the 11th district, Cong. Thomas A. Flaherty (D) of Charlestown won easily over Benjamin J. Green (R), 57,425 to 12,425.

MCCORMACK IN SWEEP

Cong. John W. McCormack (D) of South Boston, now majority leader in the House, had 96,667 votes in complete returns, compared to 21,372 for his Republican opponent, Henry J. Allen.

In the 13th district Cong. Richard B. Wigglesworth of Milton, veteran Republican, had no trouble. Nor did Cong. Joseph W. Martin, G. O. P. national committee chairman, in the 14th. Cong. Charles L. Gifford (R.) of Barnstable captured the 15th district to complete the slate.

BUCKLEY LEADING BY 13,339

Out of the swamp of G. O. P. votes which sunk Democratic state ticket leaders—despite the Roosevelt landslide—the mild, respected lieutenant of Thomas J. Buckley, the Great Unknown, smiled today.

With 1639 out of 1810 precincts counted, including 353 of Boston's 396, Buckley had a plurality of 13,339 votes in his race for state auditor with the Republican incumbent, Russell A. Wood.

A Communist party candidate, Arthur R. Buckley, preceded the name of the candidate on the ballots—to further confuse the electorate—but the electorate weren't confused, apparently.

They wanted Thomas J., and from an almost certain losing position in the race a few hours ago, there he was. At dawn the count had showed him trailing Wood by nearly 50,000.

The rise of Buckley was one of

TWO GIRLS STRUCK BY AUTO

Apparently seriously injured after they were struck by a car, two young girls lay stunned on the street car reservation at Huntington and Longwood aves. just before school time today.

Five ambulances responded. A crowd heckled police, shouting: "Do something."

The girls lay where they had been thrown when struck by a car driven by Leonard J. Chisholm, 20, of Ward st., Roxbury.

The girls, Gertrude Blake, 14, of Gainsborough st., Back Bay, and Barbara Monson, 12, of Field st., Roxbury, were on their way to the Martin school when Chisholm, who told police he swerved his car to avoid a collision, drove over the street car reservation, knocking both children down.

A doctor commended police. Two ambulances arrived from Station 4.

Huge Sign Bids Lewis Quit as Head of CIO

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (INS)—A huge banner 18 feet wide by four feet deep was hung across the main entrance to John L. Lewis' offices today. It read: "Resignation Accepted."

The CIO leader, who supported Willkie for the presidency, had said he would resign if Roosevelt won.

two from Station 10 and a private ambulance.

"Oh, the poor children," a woman moaned, and fainted.

Taken to the Peter Brent Brigham Hospital, Gertrude was treated for abrasions to both legs, Barbara for bruises on one leg.

Then the children went to school.

GREEKS REPORTED ENTERING KORITZA

By J. WES GALLAGHER

SALONIKA, Greece, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Greeks were reported in frontier advices today to have entered the Albanian city of Koritza, Italian military base, and to have captured thousands of Italians.

Large groups of Italian pris-ers arrived in Salonika today, transported from the fighting front in buses.

CAPTIVES POORLY CLOTHED

I saw five bus loads near the Salonika railway station. The captives appeared poorly clothed for the battles in the frigid mountain area.

The report of the capture of Koritza may be premature, since it is not claimed in later advices from Athens, which merely say the Greeks have captured fortifications dominating the city and are shelling it.—Editor's Note.

Prisoners were quoted as saying they had been told by their officers that "Greece will not fight; we will just walk in."

Greeks here said, also, that Italian bombers apparently were meeting resistance that surprised them. Salonika had no air raid alarm yesterday, for the third day. It was stated authoritatively that six out of 20 raiders had been shot down, 40 miles south of the city.

AMERICANS REMOVED

United States consular officials here, however, moved Salonika's small American colony and scores of naturalized Greeks to Anatolia College and the American farm school outside the city to protect them from further bombers.

None of the Americans in this area has been injured in the raids, but the Italian invasion threatens nearly $12,000,000 in United States tobacco investments in northern Greece.

Italian drive into Macedonia, were reported today to have been captured by Greek mountain troops after fierce hand-to-hand fighting.

Retreating Italian forces were shelled by their own tanks, the Greek high command declared.

A communique said many Italian prisoners were taken and artillery pieces, howitzers and machine guns were seized.

The Italian high command by implication admitted the Greeks had seized the offensive in the Koritza area, reporting that the Fascist air force had come into action to help repel Greek columns attacking "among southern branches of Lake Presba," 15 miles northwest of Koritza.

In London, authoritative military circles, while recounting Greek successes in Epirus and Albania, expressed belief Italy's real offensive against Greece had not yet been launched, but was to be expected at any moment, probably along the Kalamas river.—Editor's note.

Koritza itself was shelled almost continuously by Greek Alpine gunners on heights previously taken in bayonet charges.

The Greek air force, aided by British planes, attacked Italian troop and supply positions in Albania. In Greece civilian casualties from Italian air raids the first nine days of the war were counted at almost 1000, including 291 killed.

The Greeks reported fierce fighting all along the craggy frontier battlefield. They declared their lines were holding firm in western Macedonia and in Epirus.

Unidentified planes bombed Bitola, Yugoslav town near the upper flank of the Italian-Greek battlefield yesterday, killing at least two persons and wounding five. Both Greeks and Italians disclaimed responsibility for the

NAZIS RAID LONDON ALL NIGHT

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP)—London was showered with incendiary and high explosive bombs during the longest night air raid alarm of the war but came up today with the official announcement that "the general scale of damage was not heavy and it is confirmed that the number of casualties was not large."

A direct hit on a police station killed a number of officers.

TWO AFTERNOON ALERTS

There was a lull after the all-night alarm was lifted but the afternoon brought fresh alerts. There were two alarms by mid-afternoon, each followed shortly by the signal for "raidlers passed."

The night of bombardment started at dusk yesterday. Taking advantage of increased hours of darkness, the Nazis began their assaults earlier than usual, and the night-long alarm still was in effect when workers started for their jobs.

RAF STRIKES BACK

The all clear was sounded shortly before 8:30 a. m.

The Royal Air Force struck back, an air ministry communique said, with attacks on "objectives in Germany and on invasion ports in enemy-occupied territory."

(Swiss cities were held under air alarms during the night. Such alarms in the past have indicated British bombers were en route to and from attacks on Italy.)

Sharing the brunt of the Nazi attacks with London were the industrial midlands and eastern Scotland. Casualties were reported few, but included fatalities.

RAF Raids Naples 3d Time in Week

ROME, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Italian high command reported today that British warplanes had bombed the area around Naples during the night, killing 14 persons and injuring 10.

The raid was the third in less than a week on Naples, center of many important war industries.

The attack was disclosed on a communique reporting new successes by Italian troops on both the Greek and Egyptian fronts.

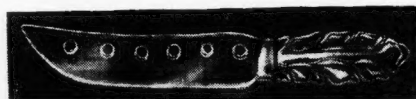

On the northern flank of the Greek front, the high command said, Italian forces yesterday repelled Greek attacks between Lake

Presba and Kapestica Pass after violent fighting.

In Egypt, Italian forces were said to have driven more than 30 miles to the southeast of Sidi Barrani, their Egyptian outpost, in pursuit of fleeing British.

The Italians asserted their air force had heavily bombed the station at Phlorina.

Britain Cheers F. D., Axis View: So What?

(By Associated Press)

The result of the United States presidential election was welcomed by Britain and her empire today as a sign of a turning world tide against totalitarianism, and it evoked in totalitarian capitals what amounted to a collective "so what?"

Japan alone of the big three totalitarian block offered outright official comment. Her foreign office spokesman said President Roosevelt should make "reorientation of the United States far eastern policy . . . one of the first tasks . . . because Asiatic affairs present a difficult situation for the United States."

Chinese saw in the tabulation of votes for Roosevelt a sign of uninterrupted opposition to Japanese expansion in Greater East Asia.

Outwardly, at least, Berlin and Rome professed to see no more significance in the swing to Roosevelt than if it had been toward Willkie—an affirmation of their occasional pre-election comments.

Official Germany was "an interested bystander," said authorized quarters, but "we especially had an almost sportive interest in the final spurt. Apparently America expected a bigger majority for Roosevelt."

"How Roosevelt will govern, how he will make good his pledges to women's and men's organizations and Christian sects, is a question of time," they added. REFUSE TO CRITICIZE.

When one correspondent asked whether there was any comment on Willkie's allegation that the President was heading for war these sources said:

"We can neither judge nor criticize Mr. Willkie's campaign slogans."

Correspondents at Rome were told Roosevelt's re-election had been regarded as certain and thus disregarded.

British Sea Losses Mount

BERLIN, Nov. 6 (AP)—The high command declared today that "increasing success" against Britain's merchant marine had brought "enemy shipping or shipping usable by the enemy" sunk to 7,160,200 tons since the war's outbreak.

A total of 1,308,600 tons was sunk in September and October, with submarines alone accounting for 946,000 tons, it was said.

Actual losses, the communiqué declared, were higher, since severely damaged ships were not included.

Prime Minister Churchill warned Commons yesterday that Germany's submarine campaign was confronting Britain with a menace perhaps more ominous than that of air assault.—Editor's note.

End to Maine Navy Strike Seen

KITTERY, Me., Nov. 6—Speedy end to the strike of 150 construction workers at Portsmouth Navy Yard was seen today as police cleared streets of potential pickets and union officials ordered cessation of the walkout.

Headquarters of A. F. of L., ordered the local representative to fill the ranks of strikers immediately, explaining the men were constructing a submarine building ways, included in the national defense program, and punctuating the union's orders with the words: "This is a command."

British Ship Nazis Claimed Sunk Docks

LONDON, Nov. 6 (AP)—The British Press Association today reported the 19,141-ton steamer Windsor Castle had docked unscathed at a British port, contradicting German claims that she had been damaged by bombs. The captain said the Germans dropped four bombs, but all missed.

G. O. P. HAS HOT FIGHT IN MAINE

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 6 (AP)—Maine swung William's electoral vote total by five today after the tightest, top-of-the-ticket contest in the "Down East" area since Charles Evans Hughes won the state from President Wilson in 1912.

An unofficial tabulation of virtually complete returns gave William 124,749 and President Roosevelt 124,684. The 2000 margin almost matched the 2000 lead of the present chief justice over Wilson 24 years ago.

William's slim plurality in a total of 218,000 votes, which surpassed by 7000 the previous high lead, marked in the state compared strikingly with Republican convention elect Summer Sewall's 70,000 majority in the Maine's early state election in 1912.

Four years ago, Mr. Roosevelt ran 42,000 votes behind Republican Alf M. Landon. In 1912, the President lost the state to Herbert Hoover by 27,000. Only once since the Republican party's defeat in 1912 has Maine wandered away from its standard in 1912 when the Bull Moose split gave the state to William.

COAKLEY IS EASY VICTOR

Governor's Council David H. Coakley, "the man nobody wanted" in the campaign, won reelection today with the greatest of ease, although what campaign he made was from a sick bed.

With last tabulation of the fourth council district complete, Coakley came through with 10,878 votes in his seat, over Hugh Morton Brown of Beverly, who received only 76,864.

The Republican majority of nine in one of the Governor's Council was retained with seven Republicans. Coakley received an another. Republican being elected for the first time. The sixth vote was that of Louis-Guy, Horace T. Cahill, also re-elected.

As two years ago, Councilor Coakley remains the only Democrat on the council.

He is elected over Edgar E. Linsley, first district; Clayton E. Hayes, second; Frank A. Brooks, third; Eugene A. F. Bartlett, fourth; George C. Nelson, seventh; Arthur A. Hastings, eighth.

William J. Macdonald, Republican, won victory in the fifth district.

BOARDS TO NAME DRAFT ADVISORS

Local draft board headquarters today indicated they would announce within 24 hours the complete list of advisory committees which will serve as information bureaus to the state's 173 draft boards.

It is to these advisory committees—and not the draft boards—that the draftees will go for help in filling out their questionnaires.

With Nov. 18-22 set as the dates on which potential trainees will report at induction centers, several Bay State boards indicated they would have first notification cards ready before the weekend.

Only volunteers are being selected for the state's initial quota of 532 men.

Induction centers in Massachusetts are located at the South Armory, Back Bay; Easton; the Lamartine School, in Worcester; and the G. A. R. Hall in Springfield.

At told, 106 New England draftees will report to induction centers for a thorough physical examination beginning Nov. 18.

Expenses will be paid from the time they report to their local draft boards.

Mrs. Saltonstall Very Happy

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

'Twas the night of election, and not a politician was stirring in the Saltonstall house. As midnight came and went, the First Lady of Massachusetts, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, sat by the family fireside with Emily, 21, and Peter, 20, listening to the radio and getting reports by telephone.

Long before the verdict of the voters was in, Leverett Saltonstall had slipped away from campaign headquarters to join his charming, devoted wife and their children. No back-slappers came with him.

"We did our best. We hope that Massachusetts voters will ask us to continue to serve," was Mrs. Saltonstall's only comment while the election hung in the balance.

Smilingly courteous, despite strain and fatigue, no matter how the returns were in the neck-and-neck race, the wife of the Governor sat with her knitting in the lovely, lived-in room in which her five children have romped.

BEAM WITH PRIDE

At about 4 o'clock in the morning, Peter and Emily accompanied their parents to the Parker House headquarters after the Governor and Mrs. Saltonstall had gone upstairs to see that Susan and Billy, the two younger children, were carefully tucked in and asleep.

Chestnut Hill was asleep, too. The Saltonstall car glided as softly out of the driveway as if they had been going for a casual country ride.

When the word was given that acclaimed Saltonstall Governor for a second term, the Saltonstalls beamed with pride.

"We are so very, very happy, and so grateful to the voters and to all those who helped in the campaign," exclaimed the modest First Lady.

"We know how deeply deserving he is of this victory. We know how fine and honest and sincere an administration this has been, and we felt sure that Massachusetts voters would re-elect him."

Mrs. Saltonstall has never taken any active part in politics, but has always followed her husband's political career with keen interest while devoting herself completely to her home.

FIRST LADY NO CAMPAIGNER

"I have sometimes wished I could do more to help him, but I know I have no ability as a campaigner," she confesses. "I guess I'm more help to him at home than I would be on the stump."

While the family waited for returns, they were as much concerned with the Governor's health and welfare as with the outcome of the election. Mrs. Saltonstall and the children were relieved to see him home for a respite from the fray.

Like hundreds of families who waited up by the radio, they had sandwiches and coffee while they listened. Only the continuous ringing of the telephone distinguished the Saltonstall home from any other comparable household.

Emily and Peter, as well as their charming mother, enjoyed the excitement at the Parker House, where all was gay.

Today they will be at home in Chestnut Hill again, and as last night, there will be no politicians in sight. Peter will be back at Harvard, Susan and Billy off to school.

Mrs. Saltonstall hopes the Governor can get some sleep today. She will be busy with her gardening, her household, the children's lessons and confidences. Only the Governor will be in politics.

"In this critical time, it is a serious responsibility, and I am happy for the State of Massachusetts, as well as for my husband, that he has been chosen again."

Election Officials Quit, Go Home

WORCESTER, Nov. 6 (AP)—Election officers here were confronted with an unique situation today when precinct officers in Ward 10, Precinct 1, grew weary of counting ballots and quit in a body to go home.

Patrolman John J. Chartier, on duty in the Pleasant St. Baptist Church, notified the city clerk. He hurried to the polling place, took the ballots that had not been counted, sealed them and brought them to City Hall, where an experienced crew of counters were put to work on them.

City Clerk Malcolm C. Mudgeley said it was the first time there had been such an occurrence in the long time that he had conducted elections.

AMERICAN POLL GAVE F. D. WIN

President Roosevelt's capture of a third term bore out the prediction made yesterday in the Crossley Poll, published exclusively in this area in the Boston Evening American.

Archibald M. Crossley, head of Crossley, Inc., international research organization, said in his final comment before the balloting began:

"Everything considered, Roosevelt is expected to be the winner, and he may have a very substantial electoral majority."

MOST ACCURATE POLL

The results at the polls, hours after this prediction was set in type, placed the Crossley survey at the top of the list for the nation and its forecast was read locally only in the Evening American.

Many other national polls and surveys continued to ride with Wilkie and declared Wilkie gains as time narrowed down toward the end of the campaign, but almost without exception each of the surveys qualified their observations on the final day.

Balloting might be as close, many of them said, as in the 1916 presidential election when Woodrow Wilson was finally re-elected after apparently being defeated by Charles Evans Hughes.

The Roosevelt sweep, however, broke the long string of accurate presidential forecasts by the veteran Washington observer, David Lawrence, publisher of the United States News at the Capital.

In six previous presidential elections, Veteran Lawrence had picked the winner, but he lost his margin touch with the appearance of the mystic seven.

GAVE EACH 196 VOTES

Lawrence's final work in the 1940 campaign for his subscribers gave Roosevelt and Wilkie 196 electoral votes each and listed 10 states with 129 votes, as doubtful.

But Lawrence concluded with a forecast for a Wilkie victory, giving the Republican candidate a promising minimum of 278 electoral votes and a maximum of 335—with 266 of the 531 electoral votes necessary to win.

Archibald Crossley began his final election comment in the Evening American with the observation that "Wilkie, to win, must have not some, but all, of the breaks." Continuing, he said:

"Analysis of the trends of the campaign shows considerable Roosevelt strength in midsummer, followed by a fast-rising tide, which met some resistance in the last week as Roosevelt began his intensive drive.

"In the past two days we have analyzed secret ballots, trends in the major poll itself, call-backs on those undecided two weeks ago, and a special week-end telegraphic poll of big cities.

"On the Roosevelt side, we find the week-end checkup of voters, undecided two weeks ago now showing a tendency to favor Roosevelt."

'I Told You So' Badges Appear

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—A vendor selling red and white streamer badges lettered "I Told You So" did a big business last night on a busy corner not far from the White House. The rush started as soon as the Roosevelt victory was indicated.

Connecticut for F.D. By Margin of 56,000

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 6 (AP)—Connecticut gave its eight electoral votes to President Roosevelt in a Democratic election victory that won for the party seven congressional seats and returned it to control of the major State offices, including the governorship.

With the big cities giving the Chief Executive pluralities smaller than those of 1936, when he carried the State by 103,000 votes, Roosevelt beat Wilkie by more than 56,000 votes on the basis of the unofficial count completed today.

More than 780,000 votes were cast, compared with 693,560 in 1936 and 636,500 in 1932.

U. S. Senator Francis T. Maloney, who with President Roosevelt ran well ahead of his Democratic associates, carried the State by about 58,000 votes in his fight for reelection against Paul L. Cornell, Republican.

The governorship went to Robert A. Hurley, 45-year-old state public works commissioner and one-time Lehigh University baseball star, who wrested the office from the Republican incumbent, Raymond E. Baldwin in one of yesterday's closest contests.

The complete unofficial tabulation of the vote in the state's 169 towns gave Roosevelt 417,958 votes and Wilkie 361,927.

R. I. ROUTS GOVERNOR, GOP SLATE

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 6—The Democratic tidal wave rolled unchecked over Rhode Island today, inundating Wendell L. Willkie, Republican Governor William H. Vanderbilt and two Republican congressmen.

President Roosevelt recaptured the four electoral votes of the state with an even larger margin than in 1936, taking a total of 181,746 to Willkie's 138,432. Four years ago his lead over Alf Landon was 40,221 as compared with 43,449 this time.

J. Howard McGrath, former U.S. District Attorney, turned back Gov. Vanderbilt's bid for re-election by 177,161 to 139,820. Another Democrat to retain honors was U. S. Sen. Peter G. Gerry, who defeated Lieut. Gov. James O. McManus by 173,480 to 140,960.

Former Rep. Alime J. Forand regained his former office by defeating Rep. Charles F. Risk, Republican incumbent, 57,417 to 64,224. In the other congressional battle John E. Fogarty, a political newcomer, unseated Rep. Harry Sandager, 57,534 to 74,141.

Defeat of Gov. Vanderbilt had generally been predicted since the wire tapping scandal which split Republican ranks and was climaxed by Vanderbilt's admission he paid a New York detective agency $15,000 to ferret out corruption in Pawtucket.

The new Governor-elect gained considerable reputation when, as U. S. attorney, he successfully prosecuted several prominent cases.

Governor Vanderbilt's defeat was the more stunning when contrasted with his performance two years ago when, as a representative of one of America's most famous families, he crushed the powerful statewide Democratic organization.

Louis V. Jackovsky, the attorney general, seeking re-election, went down to defeat before John H.

Vand. b. t. McGrath

Nolan, a former assistant attorney-general. The vote was 172,604 to 141,363.

COLE VICTOR
Armand H. Cole (D.) won the office of Secretary of State from Hector Paquin, 171,538 to 140,138; Russell H. Handy, a Republican who turned Democrat, was elected State Treasurer over Thomas P. Hamard (R.), the incumbent, 172,936 to 139,160; and Louis W. Capelli (D.), a former Secretary of State, defeated Edwin F. Scallin (R.), for lieutenant governor by 175,878 votes to 137,855.

Hongkong Evacuation By British Cancelled

HONGKONG, Nov. 6 (AP)—Orders for compulsory departure of British women and children from Hongkong have been rescinded on instruction from London, an official announcement said today.

The announcement was interpreted as meaning that British apprehensions in the Pacific were lessening.

Barton Only One Of Martin, Barton And Fish to Lose

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP)—The fate of the triumvirate aimed out for criticism by President Roosevelt in two of his campaign speeches—Martin, Barton and Fish—was split two-to-one today.

That of Martin (Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr. of Massachusetts, Republican national chairman) appeared to be successful, for he piled up a heavy lead in first returns of his race for re-election.

That of Barton (Rep. Bruce Barton of New York, candidate for U. S. Senator from New York) was certain. He conceded defeat.

That of Fish (Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr. of New York) was certain. He was re-elected.

Record and American Get Beat on Nation

The speediest and most complete election broadcast in New England's history, flashing from the editorial rooms of the Boston Daily Record and Evening American, held thousands of Greater Bostonians spellbound beside their radios well past midnight today.

For more than 10 hours a streamlined account of national and state electoral campaigns poured through Station WMEX from a microphone installed directly in the news rooms of the Hearst papers.

Presses with the speed and accuracy of machine guns roared through the evening hours, turning out extra edition after extra edition of the Daily Record—each focusing more clearly the national and state picture of a nation voting its mind.

Trucks took up the breathless pace, and thousands of readers within short periods were reading last minute accounts, getting the dope on every important development on a thousand fronts.

RECORD FIRST IN U. S.

The Daily Record with a flash edition was first newspaper in the nation on the streets with definite news that President Roosevelt was the winner. This was hours before readers of other papers definitely published the result.

It was the same story as the Evening American took over the task, concentrating now on furnishing most complete and accurate accounts on every major phase, coupled with astute observations on effects of established victories.

Hour after hour Newcomb F. Thompson, Record-American radio editor, collaborating with John E. Reilly, program director of WMEX, gave listeners the trends and tip offs presaging later victories.

VICTORY FORESEEN

Shortly after 9:30 p. m. Editor Thompson, with stories from staff writers and teletype bulletins, gave to listeners the dope that the Roosevelt victory was in sight.

This was a scoop of the first magnitude—fashioned from the policy of interpreting first trends which later were to become established facts.

Scores of listeners telephoned their approval of another feature of the broadcast—that of giving in bunches totals of the accumulated figures and their importance before listing each precinct.

In this way, vital information of aggregated votes was on the air as much as ten minutes before listeners could tabulate individual returns.

Editor Thompson and Director Reilly worked without halt from 4 p. m. until 2 a. m.

"40-Fathom" has 3 meanings

1. A fathom is 6 feet. Hence "40-Fathom" means 240 feet. At this depth are found many of the finest food fish in the world.

2. "40-Fathom" is a trademark. It is the best known brand of fish. It means the pick of the catch.

3. "40-Fathom" means important business for Boston. To the 40-Fathom plants on the Fish Pier and at East Boston, the nineteen 40-Fathom trawlers bring in nearly one hundred million pounds of fresh fish annually. 40-Fathom products are shipped from Boston to every part of the country.

PLAN E IS VICTOR AT LAST

Turned down two years ago, the highly controversial Plan E proposal apparently emerged victorious today out of Cambridge's record-breaking balloting.

The plan, which provides for adoption of a new city charter and a city manager form of government, held a substantial lead in the latest returns.

At one point, the plan was leading by approximately 1000 votes with ballots from Republican strongholds expected to increase the margin of victory to 2500.

Already in were ballots from Democratic Wards No. 1 and 11, where the heaviest endorsement had been expected.

Under the provisions, the plan becomes effective one year from date of its adoption.

Plan E was looked upon by many as the hot potato of politics in Cambridge, and interest in it competed with the presidential campaign itself.

Although the fight this year was not marked with the verbal fireworks that characterized its debut two years ago, the plan was believed to have been responsible in large measure for bringing out Cambridge's all-time record vote of nearly 50,000.

Briefly, the proposal calls for the biennial election of nine councilors-at-large, one of whom shall be elected mayor by these councilors.

A city manager is then hired and he acts as the agent of the mayor and councilors.

Defeat Stuns Dever, Tobin

Mayor Tobin today, just before Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever left the Engineers' Club before daylight for his home, said of the gubernatorial contest:

"It just doesn't make sense—especially in Boston where we thought all was well. I can't understand it. It doesn't add up."

Dever himself said at his departure for Cambridge, with Saltonstill leading:

"I concede nothing. I am deeply grateful to the hundreds of thousands of good women and men who placed their faith in me. That faith I shall never betray. But, win or lose, I shall maintain my interest in the common welfare."

Gov. Saltonstill departed for his Newton home shortly after 4 a. m., disappointing hundreds of his loyal workers who were waiting to greet him at the Parker House.

16 Trying Days Ahead, F.D. Tells Neighbors

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt filled chart after chart in today's early hours with figures telling a story of an overwhelming electoral vote lead in his historic race for a third term, and then, after describing the election trends as "fine," went to bed at 2:35 a. m.

Hundreds of the President's neighbors in this Hudson Valley village gathered with red lights, a drum and bugle corps and noise-makers.

Before midnight, telephone calls and telegrams by the hundreds had brought him messages of congratulations, and from then on the volume picked up.

Mr. Roosevelt planned to sleep late, then lay the cornerstone of Hyde Park's new fieldstone postoffice at noon.

DIFFICULT DAYS AHEAD

Friends, members of his family and a large portion of the White House staff had assembled at the President's country residence to watch the progress of the voting surrounded by them, he talked to the people who came from the village.

To a group of his neighbors, the Chief Executive remarked:

"We, of course, face difficult days in this country. But I think you will find me in the future just the same Franklin Roosevelt you have known a great many years."

COMMENTS ON FISH

He said he was going to come back to Hyde Park "just as much as the government of the United States will let me."

He commented on the fact that Hamilton Fish, Republican Congressman from his own district, had been re-elected by a narrow margin in a contest with Hardy Steeholm, Democratic candidate.

Fish, senior Republican member of the important House rules and foreign affairs committee, has been an outspoken critic of many policies of his most renowned constituent.

LATEST RETURNS—Until wee hours this morning, G. O. P. Presidential Aspirant Wendell L. Willkie and New York Dist. Atty. Thomas E. Dewey read late election returns shown to them by Willkie's secretary, Miss Grace Graham. Many hours later, Willkie conceded the victory to President Roosevelt.

MRS. WILLKIE CONTENT TO QUIT PUBLIC LIFE

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (AP)—The slim, youthful-looking wife of Wendell L. Willkie was at his side, still smiling, even as her husband was losing his fight for the Presidency.

A friend put an arm around her and said:

"Don't worry, honey."

She quickly replied:

"I'm not worrying."

On their plans for the future:

"We haven't made plans for anything," she said, "except to take a vacation. That was to happen win, lose or draw."

In an interview late in the evening, she indicated that much as she wanted her husband to win, her personal preference for herself was a quiet life.

"I've never had a public life until this campaign," she said. "I do like my own privacy. I like to sit behind the post, or behind a big fat lady—as I did yesterday at the movies."

Looking fresh after thousands of miles of travel with the candidate, she confessed, however, she was tired.

"I haven't slept for a long time, it seems to me. I certainly intend to get some sleep tonight."

As to "predictions," she said she had no more.

"I'm like Omar Khayyam. I live from day to day."

She wore a black street dress with a pale blue yoke, and no flowers. Quantities of flowers arrived during the day at her Fifth ave. home. She sent them all to hospitals.

She stayed in their hotel suite when her husband, with the vote mounting against him, went to the hotel ballroom about midnight to thank campaign workers and say, don't be afraid and never quit.

She heard his voice on the radio, and stopped greeting friends to listen.

"We want—Willkie! We want Willkie!" came the chant from the crowd in the ballroom.

Edith Willkie turned to her friends and said, "I'm proud of him. I'm proud of the fight he made."

Ohio Senator Hub Native

A former Newton boy who moved to Cleveland because the girl he loved was living there and stayed to become its Mayor for three terms today was promoted to a seat in the United States Senate by Ohio voters.

He is Harold H. Burton, born in Jamaica Plain in 1888, but for many years a resident of Newton, educated at the old Allen Military School in West Newton, Bowdoin and Harvard Law School.

In 1911 he went to Cleveland because his fiancée, Selma Florence Smith, was there; they were married and made their home there. Now he will move to another city—to Washington, D. C.

London Sees United Nation Behind F. D.

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 6 (AP)—Alf M. Landon reiterated early today his statement of a month ago warning "dictators offering us alternate threats and bribes" not to mistake rivalry in American politics for "disunity."

The 1936 Republican presidential nominee said in a nationwide broadcast that "as soon as this election is over, Democrats, as well as Republicans, will rally in the nation's interests to the support of the President."

Vermont Still G.O.P. But Margin Is Cut

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 6 (AP)—Vermont held to its traditional place in the Republican ranks today, but by a narrower margin than in 1936.

In winning the state's three electoral ballots, Willkie ousted Roosevelt in the popular vote, 78,335 to 62,214, for a plurality of 14,091. Four years ago, Alf Landon had an edge of 18,899 votes over Roosevelt.

Sweeping all major offices, the Republicans selected Gov. George D. Aiken to fill the four-year unexpired term of the late Sen. Ernest W. Gibson and reelected Sen. Warren R. Austin to a full six-year term.

Lieut. Gov. William H. Wills (R) stepped up to the governor's chair and Republican Rep. Charles A. Plumley, the state's one congressman, was returned to Washington.

STATES SHIFT CHIEFS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Democrats have already marked up nine victories to two for the Republicans in yesterday's 33 governorship contests, but neck and neck races materialized in most of the others.

The Democratic wave swept two New England Republican governors out, but the Republicans piled up leads in Illinois and Nebraska, where Democrats are now in power. There were nip-and-tuck races in Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Montana, New Hampshire, New Jersey and Utah.

Democrats held sizeable leads in Missouri, New Mexico, North Dakota, Washington, Arizona and Iowa. Republican candidates held the upper hand in Delaware, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Colorado, Ohio and South Dakota.

The victorious Democratic gubernatorial candidates were Homer M. Adams, Arkansas; Roger A. Hayley, Connecticut; Spencer L. Holland, Florida; Eugene Talmadge, Georgia; Joseph M. Broughton, South Carolina; J. Howard M. Culbreth, Rhode Island; Porter Cooper, Tennessee; former U. S. Senator Matthew M. Neely, West Virginia; and incumbent Gov. W. Lee Daniel, Texas.

The two Republican-backed were Leverett Saltonstall in Massachusetts and William H. Wells of Vermont.

Political interest focused on contests in Michigan, where Sen. Charles McNichols (D) and former Gov. D. Dickinson, one of "hatch jobs" drank me held a 3000 lead over Murray D. Van Wagoner, Democrat, and in New Jersey, where Charles Edison, son of the former president and former Secretary of the Navy, trailed his Republican opponent, Robert C. Hendrickson.

F. D. Again Edges Out N. H. Victory

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 6—President Roosevelt today matched his tight victory of 1936 to again capture New Hampshire's four electoral votes.

With only seven out of 294 precincts missing, the Roosevelt vote was 115,932 to 103,671 for Willkie. In 1936 the President defeated Alf Landon by but 3800 votes in one of the closest battles in the nation.

On the other hand, Robert O. Blood, Republican, apparently was winner of the governorship fight over Democrat F. Clyde Keefe, Francis Murphy, Republican incumbent, did not seek re-election.

With 291 out of 294 precincts tabulated, the vote was Blood, 106,255; Keefe, 103,978.

In the only other contest decided, Cong. Foster Stearns of Hingham, Republican, was winner over Atty. Daniel J. Moriarty of Nashua. Moriarty took an early lead on the basis of the Nashua vote but lost ground steadily thereafter.

Cong. Arthur B. Jenks of Manchester, Republican, took an early lead over Former Cong. Alphonse Roy, Democrat, of the same city.

Willkie Victorious In His Hometown

ELWOOD, Ind., Nov. 6 (NS)—Edward the 11th Duke of Windsor Willkie gave the Republican candidate a total of 4111 votes, 2555 for President Roosevelt, according to complete but unofficial returns today. The town's community Democratic.

20 Saltonstall on Top in Tight Race With Dever

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 6, 1940

The governor evidenced even greater strength in this city than did Wilkie, the head of the Republican ticket, who made a considerably better showing here than did Landon in 1936.

Saltonstall garnered approximately 38 per cent of the vote in Boston, stronghold of Democracy, in comparison with 37 per cent in 1936 when he defeated former Gov. James M. Curley in the gubernatorial fight.

As against Wilkie's total of 125,486 in Boston, Saltonstall pulled 137,280, the governor's plurality here over Dever being practically 38,000.

In 1936 Saltonstall came out of Boston with 120,888 to 182,986 for Curley.

In the senatorial fight, former Boston Corporation Counsel Henry Parkman, Jr., Republican, who resigned that post to run against Sen. David I. Walsh, trailed far behind the veteran from Clinton.

WALSH TOPS ALL.

Almost a perennial now in the Senate halls, Walsh pulled 217,016 to top both tickets in Boston, while Parkman was picking up only 106,389 votes in his own home town. In 1934, his last time out, Sen. Walsh pulled only 182,566 votes in Boston as against 59,416 for Robert Washburn, the Republican.

The complete Boston returns in the presidential race gave Roosevelt 214,651 to Wilkie's 125,486. Four years ago, in the greater Democratic landslide throughout the nation, Roosevelt went out of Boston with 199,504 votes to 85,789 for Landon.

While Wilkie's strength was remarkable here in comparison with Landon's, it was expected that Wilkie would do even better in the Hub and many thought he would take the state.

In the national straw polls running for weeks prior to the election the northern industrial belt, from Massachusetts to Ohio was in the category of doubtful states.

GIVES FORECAST

When Lynn, first big industrial city to complete its returns, checked in the results, however, it gave a forecast of what would come.

Lynn gave Roosevelt 27,326 and Wilkie 21,295, against a 1936 vote of 21,001 for Roosevelt and 16,399 for Landon.

The Lynn voting showed 12,321 more ballots cast than in the 1936 election, with Roosevelt picking up 6325 of them and Wilkie only 5906.

In many other Massachusetts and New England centers this story was repeated, with the Republicans making magnificent early gains only to have them offset by equally telling Democratic advances.

The second Massachusetts city to complete its returns—Somerville gave Roosevelt 24,698 and Wilkie 20,546. In 1936 Somerville gave Roosevelt 21,672 to Landon's 16,515.

THIN DEVER MARGIN
When the Cambridge report came in, Democrats were a bit shocked to note that the Dever home city had been carried for him by only 7187 votes.

In Cambridge the gubernatorial vote was 28,181 for Dever to 20,394 for Saltonstall—compared with a 1936 vote of 19,068 for Saltonstall and 25,911 for Curley.

Dever carried New Bedford by approximately 10,000 votes and had fair margins in Fall River, Lawrence and Lowell.

Bushnell, in the attorney-general's race, had an easy time of it in defeating Brennan, his Democratic opponent, running far ahead all the way.

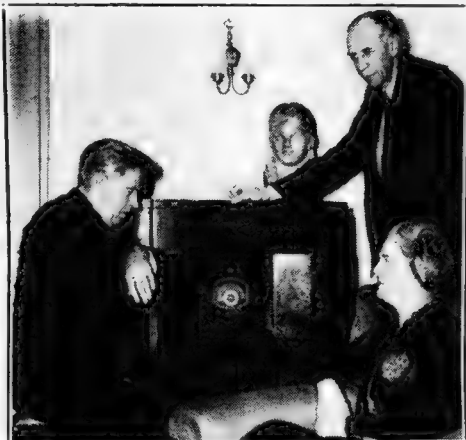

G.O.P. MINORS COAST

Easy victories were also those of Republicans Cahill in the race for Lieutenant-Governor; Cook, for Secretary of State, and Hurley for Treasurer.

The principal feature of the battling for governor's council seats was again the success of Daniel H. Coakley, lone Democrat and storm center of that body.

Throughout the Northeastern area generally, the New England states cast their electoral vote meanwhile exactly as they did in the presidential election in 1936.

Once more it was Maine and Vermont in the Republican column—but Maine only by a dangerously slim edge—with Massachusetts,

New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Connecticut going whole-heartedly to the Democrats.

FEW VOTES DECIDE

Only 9000 votes in the nearly 320,000 cast in Maine spelled out a Republican victory there in the presidential columns.

In Vermont the Republican win was more clear cut, the complete returns there giving Wilkie 78,355 votes to Roosevelt's 64,244.

Returns Speak For Themselves, Martin Declares

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Nov. 6 (AP)—Rep. Joe Martin of Massachusetts, House minority leader and chairman of the Republican National Committee, declared today that the election figures "speak for themselves." He added: "We will accept the verdict in the true American way. We presented our case fully to the American people . . . I hope that their decision will be in the interest of the country."

F. D. Asleep as Wire From Wilkie Arrives

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt was still asleep this morning when Wendell L. Wilkie dispatched a telegram congratulating him on a third term victory.

White House officials said that naturally the President would reply. But reports that he would address the nation by radio sometime during the day were dismissed as entirely without foundation.

F. D. Victory Smashes Third Term Tradition

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—The third term tradition—part and parcel of American political history for a century and a half—was swept aside yesterday in the Roosevelt triumph.

It was the first clear-cut test of the old tradition. It was the first time the electorate had ever expressed itself directly on the subject.

President Roosevelt was the eleventh Chief Executive to confront the third term problem. The issue played a major part in the heated campaign. Throughout it, numerous demands were heard for those things just as amazing as his vote was.

By his own words, explaining the remarkable upset of the primaries last September in which he was nominated, he was "no politician."

Friends, he said at that time, circulated papers for him. He did some campaigning, but few persons knew where or when.

He insisted all the time that he had not capitalized on the similarity of his name and that of former State Auditor and present Asst. Collector of Internal Revenue Thomas H. Buckley of Abington.

CAPTURED FANCY

There were many unkind enough to say that the candidate's "Tom Buckley for Auditor" circulars were premeditatedly for that purpose but Thomas J. indignantly denied any such thing.

He was then received into the fold by Democratic State Committee Chairman William H. Burke, Jr., who had confessed he didn't know Candidate Buckley when the primary returns came in. During the campaign the aspirant for the Auditor's post was almost as quiet as before, but his candidacy had apparently captured popular fancy—or humor.

WENDELL VOTES WILKIE

WENDELL, Nov. 6—Living up to its name, the town of Wendell gave Wendell Wilkie 61 votes against 73 votes for President Roosevelt, according to final returns in the Presidential election.

what started out as a nip and tuck race but ended with the New Deal candidate far in front.

The President's home state gave him a plurality of about 230,000 over Willkie. In the 1935 landslide, Roosevelt's plurality over Alfred M. Landon soared to 1,112,552.

With all but 31 of the state's 9319 districts tabulated, the vote stood: Roosevelt, 2,352,992; Willkie, 3,019,312.

In Pennsylvania Roosevelt rolled up a lead that passed the 250,000 mark.

Roosevelt rolled up a lead that passed the 250,000 mark.

Despite the fact that Willkie apparently carried at least 40 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties. With a few hundred precincts of 8113 in the state remaining to be tabulated, President Roosevelt had 2,056,136 votes and Willkie 1,802,967.

The contest in Michigan threatened to settle into a neck-and-neck race as pluralities for Roosevelt in Detroit tendered to offset the margin compiled by Willkie in out-state areas.

With 2842 precincts of the 3632 in the state reported, Willkie had 741,142 Roosevelt 797,516.

INDIANA BACKS WILLKIE

Willkie increased his lead in Indiana to 15,215 votes as returns were tabulated from 3064 of the state's 3998 precincts. These gave Willkie 733,175, Roosevelt 719,960. Illinois appeared to have given Roosevelt a majority vote for the third straight presidential election.

Returns from 7805 of the state's 8373 precincts gave Roosevelt 1,993,754 and Willkie 1,865,967.

In Ohio the fight was considered close by experts. With 8019 precincts out of 8675 in Roosevelt polled 1,541,951 votes, while the vote for Willkie reached 1,433,163.

The tide of ballots ran heavily in Mr. Roosevelt's favor almost from the first—ballots he had asked as a "vote of confidence" in his administration, born in the domestic crisis year of 1933 and now given another four-year tenure in the international crisis year of 1940.

After telling his followers in a post-midnight speech at his New York hotel not to be "afraid or disheartened," Willkie retired with the announcement that he would make no statement before midnight.

MCCARY ADMITS DEFEAT

But Sen. Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Willkie's vice-presidential running mate, acknowledged defeat and sent his congratulations to Mr. Roosevelt and the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, Henry A. Wallace.

"We shall try to associate Mr. Roosevelt and his affiliates a worthy and vigilant opposition," McNary said in a statement. "I am a native Oregonian, and I am proud to be a part of the team that has won this great victory for our principles four years hence."

The President was at Hyde Park, N. Y., with his family. There a procession of neighbors called on him in a triumphant torchlight parade last night and he told them the vote "looks all right."

WALLACE GRIMED

Wallace, in Washington where he had watched his home state of Iowa stick tenaciously in the Republican column, said he was "gratified" at the end trend of voting, but he retired without other comment before the ticket on which he held second place swept to such commanding leads.

In the nine states which Willkie held a margin today were widely scattered, and while predominantly agricultural, included some industrial centers. They were Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Vermont.

Indications were that the total vote cast broke all previous records despite unfavorable weather in some sections of the country. Off to a good start, Mr. Roosevelt soon captured the lead in Connecticut from the Republicans and added Maryland and Virginia. Willkie took the lead in Maine—and held it although the Democratic ticket there exceeded expectations. He also temporarily acquired Rhode Island and Illinois.

Ohio, like Illinois first went into the Republican column. Then Pennsylvania started the march of populous states for the Democrats and Willkie's lead in Ohio dwindled until the count turned into a Democratic majority.

Republicans pocketed with desperate hope toward New York, where late closing of the polls delayed all hint of how the vote would go for them in the all important Empire State.

By 10 p. m. EST, Mr. Roosevelt had gained the lead in states with 364 electoral votes while Willkie was mustering 121 electoral votes. New York, among others, still was silent but the Republican candidate steadily built up a commanding lead in New Jersey—home of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

TELEPHONES TO FLUXX

About this time Mr. Roosevelt telephoned from Hyde Park to Edward J. Flynn, the Democratic national chairman, in New York City, that he was "very confident" of re-election.

In New York City, a still optimistic Willkie commented that the contest was a "horse race." The result, he said, would not be known until Wednesday.

By midnight President Roosevelt had gained a lead in returns from New York state and its prize of 47 electoral votes as yet belonged to nobody.

POPULAR VOTE FALLS

At noon it appeared that President Roosevelt's election had been accomplished with 468 of the country's 531 electoral votes. The number required for election is 286. Indications were that his popularity would prove considerably less than the margin of more than 10,000,000 by which he was elected in 1936.

Helped along by the President's sweep, Democrats kept control of both the House and Senate.

With returns in many congressional districts still incomplete, the Democrats were certain of 237 House seats—19 more than the 218 needed for a bare majority—Republicans were sure of 114 and the American Labor Party one. At this point Democrats had won 17 House seats now held by Republicans and Republicans had captured six House seats now held by Democrats, giving the Democrats a net gain of eleven.

SENATE SHIFTS

Of the Senate was hardly in doubt because Democratic hold-overs and unopposed candidates in the South were almost sufficient to assure a majority. However, on the face of incoming returns, 16 Democrats and eight Republicans were sure of election to Senate seats. In four of these races the outcome represented a shift from one party to the other. Combined, these shifts gave the Republicans a net gain of two.

Harold H. Burton of Ohio, Republican, defeated John McSweney, Democrat, for the place now held by Democratic Senator Victor E. Johnson. In Nebraska, Republican Hugh A. Butler defeated Gov. Robert L. Cochran, Democrat, for the seat now occupied by Sen. Edward Burke, Democrat.

Sen. C. Townsend, Jr., Delaware Republican, went down to defeat at the hands of James M. Tunney, Sr., Democrat. Sen. Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, a Farmer-Laborite in the past, was re-elected as a Republican.

LA FOLLETTE LEADS

Sen. Robert M. "Young Bob" La Follette, Progressive, who endorsed a third term for the President, pulled away from Republican Fred H. Clausen in Wisconsin after trailing for many hours.

Late today the state incomplete returns showed eleven Democrats and seven Republicans assured of election to governorships. The outcome in five of these contests represented a shift from one party to the other, giving the Democrats a net gain of one in governorships at this point.

Reports persisted that due to the present emphasis on a need for national unity in the face of foreign developments, Mr. Roosevelt might ask his vanquished foe to assume a post of importance in connection with the defense program.

Certain it was that in many minds Willkie's defeat had hardly diminished his stature. The energy of his campaign commanded widespread admiration, not only among his followers, but among his opponents, too.

As a result he is in excellent position to help member of Congress shape Republican policy in the four years to come, during which period he will be his party's titular leader.

Democrats in Lead For Congress Rule

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Riding the wave of ballots with President Roosevelt, the Democrats apparently kept control of both House and Senate in Tuesday's election.

A tabulation at 9 a. m. showed they had won at least 13 of the 23 Democratic Senate seats at stake. These, added to 41 hold-over Democrats, gave them the crucial majority of at least 57. The Senate has 96 seats.

The Republicans, with 15 hold-overs, retained at least five of nine seats they had at stake for a tentative total of 20.

MARCANTONIO WINNER

Returns showed the President's party had won 226 House seats to 109 for the Republican.

In other contests the Democrats appeared assured of electing enough Representatives to give them the 218 necessary for a majority.

Vito Marcantonio, American Laborite from New York City who opposed all defense measures, won again.

The present composition of the House is 238 Democrats, 167 Republicans, two Progressives, one Farmer-Labor, one American Labor and six vacancies.

Turnovers at the time of the tabulation gave the Democrats a net gain of seven. Democrats ousted four Republicans each in Connecticut and Pennsylvania, two in Rhode Island and one each in New York and West Virginia.

MARTIN OUT IN FRONT

The Republicans took over one district in Oklahoma, New York and California and two in Illinois. Key Democrats who held their places included Speaker Sam Rayburn, unopposed; John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, Democratic leader, and Patrick J. Boland of Pennsylvania, Democratic whip.

Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader who had predicted a Republican gain of 60 to 70, was well in front of his Democratic opponent.

Among defeated Republicans was Walter Johnson, "big train" of baseball, beaten in Maryland by William D. Byron, Democrat incumbent.

WADSWORTH WINNER

Republican Wadsworth, former Republican Senator from New York, and Kenneth Simpson, New York County party chairman. The latter succeeded to the seat of Bruce Baitton in New York City's 17th "Slick Sticking" District.

The chairman of the House military committee, Andrew Jackson May, Kentucky Democrat, held a slight edge over his Republican opponent.

All members of the Dies Committee investigating un-American activities who sought re-election, won. Democrats held substantial odds in their efforts to retain Senate seats in Arizona, Kentucky, Washington, New Mexico, Nevada, Missouri, Montana and Utah. Victims included Andrews of Florida, Byrd of Mississippi, Connally of Texas, Byrd of Virginia and McKellar of Tennessee, all incumbents.

The Democratic sweep also carried along to new six-year terms Mead of New York, Wheeler of Montana, opponent of President Roosevelt for the Democratic presidential nomination, Cuffey of Pennsylvania, Gerry of Rhode Island, Maloney of Connecticut, Walsh of Massachusetts, Radcliffe of Maryland and O'Mahoney of Wyoming, all incumbents.

AUSTIN RE-ELECTED

Harry M. Kilgore, Democrat, won the seat now held by Rush Holt of West Virginia, defeated in his party's primary.

Republicans re-elected included the veteran Johnson of California, Austin of Vermont, assistant Republican leader, and Harbour of New Jersey.

Governor George D. Allen, Republican, was elected for the unexpired term of the late Ernest W. Gibson of Vermont. Ralph O. Brewster, Republican, was chosen by Maine in September.

Republicans held the seat to seats now held by Democrats, Burk of Nebraska, defeated in the primary, and Danahy of Ohio.

In Nebraska, Hugh A. Butler, Republican, was in front of Gov. R. L. Cochran, Democratic nominee. Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland was far ahead of his Democratic opponent, John McSweney in Ohio.

In Indiana, Raymond L. Willis, Republican, trailed closely behind Senator Milton, Democratic whip while in Illinois, C. Wayland Brooks, Republican, gradually was cutting into the lead held by Senator Slattery, Democrat.

Senator Townsend R. of Delaware, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, trailed James M. Tunney, Sr., Democrat, by 5000 votes with only 32 precincts to be heard from.

The fate of two incumbent Republicans, Vandenberg of Michigan and Thomas of Idaho, appeared to hinge on the result of late vote tabulations.

Lafayette, Wisconsin Progressive, lagged behind Fred H. Clausen, Republican.

Roosevelt, Radcliffe Sweep Maryland Vote

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6 (AP)—Democratic Maryland ran true to form yesterday, voting overwhelmingly for President Roosevelt, and sweeping Democrats into every office on the ballot. Returns from 1246 of the state's 1331 polling places left Willkie trailing 297,792 to 364,168.

Heading the ticket was Democratic Senator George L. Radcliffe, who captured another term by the landslide margin of 372,083 to 191,393 over former Governor Harry W. Nice.

WALSH WINS OVER PARKMAN

Sen. David I. Walsh of Clinton, chairman of the Senate naval affairs committee and veteran of 41 years of political wars, was victorious over his Republican opponent, Henry Parkman, Jr., today.

The veteran Democrat ran far ahead of his party's gubernatorial candidate, Paul Deane, and his returns seemed certain to pile up a greater majority than that of President Roosevelt.

Parkman conceded victory during the morning hours after 367 out of 1401 state precincts showed Walsh in the lead 328,272 to 27,668.

Parkman, until recently corporation counsel of the City of Boston, extended Walsh his congratulations on the confidence the people of Massachusetts have shown in him to render service to the country in the difficult times that lie ahead.

"It has been a hard fought campaign, and I thank my friends for the enthusiastic support they have given me."

Although the Republican candidate, on the list of the totals of Robert Washburn, Walsh's opponent in 1936, he never came within striking distance as the vote on Democrats piled up majorities in virtually every city in the commonwealth.

The victory was seen by political experts as just another example of Walsh's power to win wide support always from the ranks of Republicans and Independents, in addition to his own party.

FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT has now been elected President of the United States three times by substantial majorities of the American people.

The Hearst newspapers were not in agreement with the majority of the people the last two times Mr. Roosevelt was a candidate, and were especially in disagreement on the issue of granting him a third term.

However, the Hearst newspapers have never questioned the RIGHT of the American people to give Mr. Roosevelt a third term, or any other number of terms he may seek and they may see fit to grant.

It was the WISDOM of giving him, or any President, a third term which was gravely questioned.

Now of course Mr. Roosevelt HAS the third term, and thus presents us with an accomplished and irrevocable fact.

Unfortunately the perils of the third term which have been foreseen may not be so easily disposed of, and will be discussed and disposed of as they are encountered—and let us hope we will be able to overcome these very real perils as blithely as we have invited them.

It does not necessarily follow that a people which chooses to walk in the path of peril will succumb to peril.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE have always been their hardest and most resolute when confronted by great dangers; and all that remains to be said about the third term and its consequences now is that the American people will indeed have to be their very hardest and most resolute when the ultimate price of the third term is paid.

The Hearst newspapers have never been partisan newspapers but have always been AMERICAN newspapers.

They have always supported Mr. Roosevelt in what they considered to be his good policies, and have only disagreed and criticized when their conception of what was good for the country was at variance with his acts.

They will NOW support Mr. Roosevelt when he deserves to be supported, and will continue to disagree with and criticize him when that is called for in the service of the Nation.

The Hearst newspapers hope most earnestly and sincerely that Mr. Roosevelt will make the very most of his exceptional and unprecedented opportunities, will distinguish himself in the service of his country, and will justify the confidence so many millions of Americans have expressed in him.

COLUMNIST DURLING finds fault with terms of endearment frequently employed in American households.

He says new pet names for husbands and wives are badly needed. He particularly objects to calling a woman "Babe," "Honey" and "Dearie."

Mr. Durling has our sympathy. We, too, dislike painfully sweet names.

Permitting a wife, sister or girl friend to keep the name she received at the baptismal font seems more chivalrous to us.

However, unless we miss our guess, those who are accustomed to say "Babe," "Honey" and "Dearie" won't change, and nobody, including ourselves, will be seriously harmed.

After all, a name is not important.

The way one says it—THAT is the important thing.

WE ARE PLEASED to say a good word for the ninety-sixth annual Fall flower show which the Massachusetts Horticultural Society opens tomorrow.

The exhibition at 300 Massachusetts ave., Boston, will include chrysanthemums, orchids, begonias, carnations and a wide variety of house plants and fruits.

On view also will be four of the dioramas being built for Harvard University to illustrate the evolution of New England forests during the past three hundred years.

In times like these, with so large a part of the world involved in war and destruction, flowers and gardening, are particularly valuable in the influence they exercise upon the common well-being.

That reason alone should induce all Bostonians who can possibly afford the time and money to spend at least an hour this week at the flower show.

ANOTHER FINE VENTURE is the distribution of free milk to one hundred needy, undernourished school children in Roxbury.

The charitable enterprise will be conducted after December first under the direction of the Women's Civic Federation.

Eventually the program is going to be extended to other districts where school physicians report evidence of malnutrition.

For the sons and daughters of more fortunate families there will be low-priced lunches, some costing as little as three cents.

Money spent in this manner is wisely spent. Years from now, when the children of today are grown to manhood and womanhood, the investment will pay large dividends in health and happiness.

On The Side

I'M NOT GOING to complain about American typewriters any more. I have just learned a Japanese typewriter has more than three thousand letters. Imagine trying to pick and peck a story out on a thing like that . . . Calvin Coolidge said: "Never go out to meet trouble. If you will just sit still, nine times out of ten someone will intercept it before it reaches you" . . . "Father" Divine of Harlem concludes all his letters with: "I am well, healthy, joyful, peaceful, lively, loving, successful, prosperous and happy in spirit, body and mind and in every organ, sinew, joint, limb, vein and bone—and even in every atom, fiber and cell of my bodily form. Yours, Rev. M. J. Divine."

"WOE to the weak!" cried Mussolini in 1934. And who can now deny Il Duce had something there . . . She was broke on Christmas, writes a feminine client. Her three children were asking, "When is Santa Claus coming?" She was thinking of a good excuse for Santa's non-arrival when a knock at the door was heard. It was a minister bringing groceries, gifts and money. Ah, my friends, that man really was a minister, NOT just a preacher. God rest his soul, as my grandmother used to say . . . A sermonette by anon: "Even though you may not be a budding genius (few of us are) cash in on whatever knack you may have that gives you an edge over the next person. Pick the job that gives you room to be yourself."

DEANNA FINDS LOVE IN "SPRING PARADE"

Bob Cummings' Kiss "Really Very Nice," Says Miss Durbin

IN THE FILM "Spring Parade,"

Deanna Durbin, who is a big girl now, receives her first real kiss on the screen. Bob Cummings was the kisser. Asked how this initial salute to love felt Deanna said reservedly: "It was really very nice." Perhaps Deanna is saving the description "thrilling!" for the first time she is kissed by Clark Gable . . . "Did you ever hear a dream snoring?" Is the title of four-line poem E. L. Rosenthal says he is working on in the bitter battle for the prize of a lock of Dorothy Lamour's hair. Thelma Beers of Detroit has written a verse which reminds us dogs snore, too. My present pup, snores but not as much as the last one I had. He had a snore like the best effort of a London fog-horn. And he preferred to sleep on my chest. Miss Beer's poem follows:

The little dog slumbers away in his den,

The moon peaks in at the door,
Serenity reigns but peacefulness wanes

When Fifi begins to snore.

MY DAY.

HYDE PARK, Tuesday—This is election day and I have been told with great firmness to get my column in early because the telegraph wires into New York City will soon be busy with election news. Of course, nothing authentic in the way of election returns can come in until the late afternoon, but I suppose newspaper correspondents will be filing stories all during the day about minor happenings here and there.

Yesterday was calm and peaceful. I met my husband in the morning, rode for a while through the woods and the fields and enjoyed the blue sky and the warm sun. Then we had the picnic I told you about.

We all went with the President in the evening to the meeting outside of the Nelson House in Poughkeepsie, and then returned to listen to the two hours of the Democratic broadcast.

I found that the President, instead of closing the program, came somewhere in the middle of it. I liked the whole program. Then we listened through the Republican hour which followed, and so went rather late to bed, for I still had mail to finish on my desk.

IN SPITE of being busy, the atmosphere was calm, but today it is not going to be quite so calm. I am taking my ride, but at noon my husband and I, with his mother, will go up to vote and all the photographers and newspapermen will be on hand to record the process as they have done so often before. I shall feel quite calm, but no one thinks that you should be calm, so, willy-nilly, you find yourself being urged into excitement.

The telephones will ring and people will be rising from the table during meals to answer them. The President will have to talk to many people and in spite of all one can do, election excitement will mount. By the time returns are really coming in, very few of us will be left who are capable of comparing past votes with present figures and making any evaluation of what is really going on.

I remember what it was like the first time my husband ran for the New York State Senate. We had no radio and no news service in the house then, and if I remember rightly it was 32 years since a Democrat State Senator had gone from this district to Albany. The campaign had been an intensive one, and I doubt very much if he has ever worked harder since. I wanted him to win just because he was running, and because I felt he might do something of value for the district.

From then on there have been campaigns for various offices. Some were lost and more were won, but I think my feelings have always been much as they were the first time. I think I can say with honesty:

"May what is best for the country happen today, and may we all remember that whatever happens, this is just the beginning of some years of useful work."

SHIRLEY TEMPLE BEATS
G-MAN HOOVER

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Jimmy Walker, at the Plaza, is shown a newspaper account of Samuel Seabury's speech. "I want to know one thing," Walker replies. "When will Samuel Seabury do something constructive to get his name into the newspapers without coupling it with mine?" . . . "Well, after all these years, I've finally taken up golf," J. Edgar Hoover admits at Toots Shor's. "I visited Yellowstone Park and saw Shirley Temple—who got me to try it. So we played golf—and Shirley beat me" . . . "Maitha Raye was robbed Friday night," a police official informs at Sardi's. "She left a night club alone, in a cab and was held up. Her mink coat and purse were taken from her."

"WARNER BROS. is on a spot," a publicist declares at the Panamanian Village, "because it decided to hold the premiere of 'Santa Fe Trail' in Santa Fe—after a tie-up with the railroad of that name. Then they found that the railroad doesn't come within 18 miles of the city, and you have to take a bus from the city to the station" . . . At the Rainbow Room, Mrs. George Hopper Fitch presents Archduke Otto, the Hapsburg pretender, to Evelyn, the hatcheck girl there. "When I was a child," she tells him, "I was one of a group of school girls in Budapest who sang a song of welcome to you, when the Emperor and Empress brought you here."

"LELAND HAYWARD," a producer informs at Leon & Eddie's, "is arranging an aviation post with the defense board" . . . "Gloria Swanson," an agent reports at Leone's, "will take the leading role in the new Edward G. Robinson play" . . . "Behind every successful man there's a woman," Eddie Cantor philosophizes at the Versailles. "Behind Ted Lewis you'll find Adah Lewis. Behind me—you'll find Ida. And behind Jessel," Cantor concludes reading from a long sheet, "there are Florence Courtenay and Norma Talmadge and Lois Andrew" . . . "That was no subterfuge—having Joe Kennedy's children pay for his political broadcast," a broker declares at the Gay 90's. "Some years ago Kennedy divided his fortune among his nine children." And in all his business deals he acts as trustee for each child who's given a full share.

"MY BROTHER registered for the draft five times because he lives in Jersey—and thought he was enrolling for election," Henry Youngman states at the Havana-Madrid. "And did I tell you how high up I sat for the Army-Notre Dame game? I sat in the last row of the third tier. The usher who was showing me to my seat stopped half way up and said: 'You'll have to proceed alone. From here on up my nose starts to bleed' " . . . "Did you know," a Britisher relates at the Copacabana, "that Alfred Duff Cooper named his son 'John Julius Cooper'—Julius, because his son was born after a Caesarian operation?" . . . "Russell Bennett, who has been orchestrating all of Jerome Kern's work, and is one of the country's best arrangers, is quitting his lucrative Hollywood job," a radio executive reports at the Famous Door. "He's going to do a series of broadcasts for WOR."

"WHEN CAN YOU both lunch with me?" Valentin Ferrara, Grace Moore's husband, asks Mrs. Lewis Milestone and Anatol Litvak at El Morocco . . . "No, not lunch. Don't be so methodical," Mrs. Milestone replies. "My husband will be here and then we'll all come to your country house on Friday for the week-end" . . . "Sam Goldwyn met Clifford Odets a few days ago," a film official relates at the 18 Club, "and said: 'I have a great new theme for a movie you can write for me.' Odets asked: 'What's the theme?' and Goldwyn said: 'Seven million people in N. Y. Isn't that a great theme?' Clifford told him: 'If that's the theme, Mr. Goldwyn, I've been writing it for years' " . . .

"HERE'S A STORY," a correspondent relates at Dave's Blue Room. "Hitler took the statue of Moses from the Louvre to his garden in Berlin. For one hour each day he was observed kneeling in front of that statue. Somebody finally dared to listen to what Hitler was saying to the statue. On bended knee the Fuehrer said: 'Tell me, Oh Moses, how did you ever get those people across that body of water?'"

MARTHA RAYE

WITH ROMO VINCENT RETURNING tonight to the Mayfair, scene of his last year's pre-Broadway triumph, Mickey Redstone's glittering salon of song and dance in the heart of the local Rialto becomes as jovial a place as any to pay off election bets . . . A year ago, the bulky Romo was a more-or-less unidentified comic with a vague reputation of having been a success in Chicago.

BOSTON PROCEEDED TO WAX mildly mad about the boy . . . as a consequence, he was able to move on to the New York market-place with a sheaf of favorable press notices, and the fervent endorsement of the Mayfair management . . . In show business, his immediate success was the springtime (1940) talk of the big town . . . Romo got a two-week booking at The Hurricane.

FOUR MONTHS LATER he was still on the payroll . . . New York laughed more loudly at his antics than did Boston . . . Hollywood scouts and Broadway producers both viewed his work from vantage points at the ring-side, and the consensus was that a sparkling new comedian had been found . . . He has a Broadway contract at his mercy right now . . . But it pays to be very sure in making the leap from the café circuit to the musical comedy stage.

SO—UNTIL ROMO AND HIS managerial staff comprises its collective mind, Mr. Vincent and his gorgeous voice and comic gift are once again available to patrons of the Mayfair . . . Boston was quite nice to Romo . . . It was typical of his sense of gratitude that he insisted on playing in the nightclub where he feels the "break" in his career happened . . . If you missed him last season, this department unhesitatingly urges an audition of his several talents before he leaves town again.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: When Jacob Wilk, story editor for Warner Brothers, visited with Fulton Oursler, the editor, at Falmouth the past summer, he was impressed by the beauty of the Oursler secretariat, which numbers five—and all female . . . Mr. Wilk suggested that Mr. Oursler, who should know the subject well, write a scenario or novel about the bevy of beauts who performed his stenographic services.

MR. WILK WAS SO ENTHUSIASTIC that he made the suggestion in hearing of the girls themselves . . . He went a bit further and offered a screen test to the Oursler girls . . . One of them, Mildred Labelle of Somerville—and the name is not a stage name—has taken Mr. Wilk seriously . . . (As perhaps he intended) . . . Miss Labelle met the directors of the Theater of Fifteen when that group interpreted the Oursler play, "Nude—With Pineapple," at Centerville, in August.

SHE IS NOW REHEARSING in a play tentatively called "Give My Regards to Broadway," which the Theater of Fifteen, as tenants of the Peabody Playhouse, is getting ready for production . . . Mr. Wilk should certainly be reminded of the encouragement he extended the Oursler secretaries a few months ago . . . I hope this reaches him . . . Because he is always very welcome as a Boston visitor.

EDDIE MACK'S NIGHT at the Copley-Plaza—Saturday next—is gaining a bid and willing recruits to the show department with each passing day . . . Both Ranny Weeks and Mickey Alpert of the Coconut Grove have assured the committee of their presence . . . And if Ralph "Babe" Rubenstein needs an assistant with the chore of introducing the performers, the industrious Joe Rubin is at his command . . . Tom Maren has promised his conga-band and conga dancers from the Beachcomber . . . Janet Carroll of the Latin Quarter, and Doris Abbott of the Vienna Room will help with the prima-donna-ing . . . Meantime, the tables are selling fast.

NEW PLAY FOR GERTRUDE LAWRENCE

A HOLIDAY ATTRACTION for Boston will probably be the new Gertrude Lawrence vehicle "Lady in the Dark" . . . The play will come from the atelier of Sam H. Harris, who already has contributed "George Washington Slept Here" to the season's play list . . . Miss Lawrence and

WARNER LEADS IN UNITY PLEA

By Louella O. Parsons

Harry M. Warner

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—As I write this the shouting is almost over—the American people have chosen their leader and I am proud to lend by voice to "the plea for national unity" which Hollywood is launching in a terrific campaign. Every can of film that goes out to every studio—every main title on every picture—every theater poster will bear the insignia of the official plea for Americans to forget all party lines and unite once again in a spirit that is all American. In preparation for the drive a short film of national service is being released to theaters immediately following the election.

A committee of film industry leaders headed by H. M. Warner of Warner Brothers (who prepared the short) today sends out this plea to you and you and you.

"Whatever the differences were among us before election, there should remain no doubt that there are no differences among us today. We must stand as one behind the man of the people's choice. We must not fall prey to the plan of 'divide and conquer.' The Great Liberator has given us our rule of national life—'united we stand, divided we fall' " . . .

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD AND PHILADELPHIA: Myrna Loy insisted on stopping and voting on her way to the Cedars of Lebanon where she'll try to get rid of a bad case of the flu; not all Hollywood arguments were political. Virginia Bruce and John Barrymore had quite a flare-up about a scene in "The Invisible Woman"—but all is quiet again.

VIRGINIA BRUCE

WENT TO THE EMBASSY CLUB between shows with Mr. and Mrs. Morton Schellenberg. He is the owner of one of the big Philadelphia department stores; Helen Hayes opened last night in "Twelfth Night" here and despite election eve she played to a crowded house; the nearest thing to an old fashioned political torchlight parade was held on all street corners with both Willkie and Roosevelt followers trying to shout the other fellow down.

JEANETTE MACDONALD trains out from Hollywood Thursday on the first lap of her concert tour; Terry Hunt showing Slapstick Maxie to Betty King, the girl from Florida who has so much money; Joan Blondell and Dick Powell are among the guests of honor at the opening of the Rhythm Room Friday; Mrs. Ray Milland is parting with her tensils at the Cedars of Lebanon today.

JUST HEARD that Richard Wallace has signed to direct two pictures for Hal Roach for United Artists release; Mickey Rooney buying a drive-in dinner for Patty McCarty. Mickey may be dodging the night clubs—but he's still playing the field as far as girls are concerned.

BETTE DAVIS has such a bad cold she has lost her voice; never heard such raves as have come to me about the "Andy Hardy" short which was made for the Community Chest drive with Mons. Rooney and Lewis Stone. It was made particularly for Los Angeles—but it is so good I hear the rest of the country may see it.

"Lady in the Dark" were scheduled to begin rehearsals Nov. 15, but before the date was established a matter of dispute between John Golden, who owns Miss Lawrence's current play, "Skylark," had to be arbitrated by Equity.

MR. GOLDEN MAINTAINED THAT he was entitled to three weeks' notice from the date of Nov. 15 before releasing Miss Lawrence to the rival producer . . . Equity decided that Mr. Harris owned Miss Lawrence's services from daybreak of Nov. 15—on . . . So Mr. Harris won . . . Moss Hart wrote the book of "Lady in the Dark," and without his constant collaborator, George S. Kaufman . . . Kurt Weill has written the music.

PRODUCER HARRIS tied himself to Paul French when "George Washington Slept Here"—after three postponements—opened in New York . . . He has not yet made up his mind about the new play's booking, but the choice rests between Philadelphia and Boston.

BOY LOST IN WOODS RECOVERS

ROULTON, Me., Nov. 6 — John Jackson, 19, of Portland, who was found after he had wandered for 48 hours in the woods without food in sub-freezing temperatures, was reported today to be suffering no ill effects from the long exposure.

The youth, who had wandered away from the Molunkus Camp 45 miles southwest of here, was found by local and state police in the dense and trackless forest only a few miles from the camp.

Hundreds of officers, forest wardens and volunteers had engaged in a widespread search after Patrolman Robert Bonner of the Portland police, one of a group that had gone with Jackson on a hunting trip, reported the youth missing.

WAR ORPHANS ENJOY JOLLY 'FAWKES DAY'

A group of young British refugees today were grateful to a Brookline foster mother who gave them an opportunity to be English again for a few hours through a celebration of Guy Fawkes Day.

The children, as explained by Dr. and Mrs. Tracy B. Mallory of Hedge rd., Brookline, have grown to love the United States, but they had been longing to hear and see something British again.

Christopher Andrews, an English boy who is staying at the Mallory home, suggested to Mrs. Mallory that it "would be nice" if Guy Fawkes Day could be celebrated here.

Promptly, Mrs. Mallory reached other families who are housing young British evacuees and arranged the celebration at the Old Reservoir in Brookline.

There weren't more than a half dozen British children at the party, but they were happy as Dr. Mallory allowed them to set off fireworks, while the American children with them seemed delighted for being able to make these new friends feel at home.

Guy Fawkes was one of the principals in a frustrated plot to blow up the House of Parliament in 1606. He was arrested and tortured, and in later years became a target of ridicule as British observed the anniversary of the gunpowder plot with fireworks and bonfires.

Chaplin's Biography Reveals True Story

From the poverty-ridden East End of London to an estate in Hollywood; from a struggling vaudeville performer to the world's greatest motion picture actor; from a simple personality to a life of intense emotion.

"Charles Chaplin, King of Tragedy," a biography by Gerith von Uim, published by the Caxton Printers, Ltd., Caldwell, Idaho, outlines a career that is fascinating, absorbing and almost incredible.

Charles Chaplin is without question the one motion picture star entitled to be described as a genius. His creation of the wistful, frustrated little tatterdemalion has become a world-renowned figure.

In his art as a pantomimist that is at once simple and profound, this master performer has brought delight to untold millions. For years he has been his own author, his own director, his own musical composer, his producer as well as his own star.

TERRIFIC STRUGGLE

Behind the figure of this pathetic tragicomic character he has created is a personality of charm and intellect, and few outside his circle of intimate friends realize that in his personal life he has fought a terrific struggle for a happy adjustment of himself to society.

The author of this brilliant life story with keen psychological insight and feminine intuition shows a complete understanding of this life struggle and explains it as the underlying cause of Chaplin's numerous tilts against the conventions.

In a foreword to her book the author says:

"In portraying the chain of events resultant of the inner urge to greatness that converted an obscure Cockney boy into one of the greatest artists of his day the author has made no effort to please Chaplin nor to placate his friends; but has endeavored to reveal as much of the truth as is compatible with good taste. . . . We cannot have art without artists; and their modes of life are not ours to criticize but rather is it our pleasurable duty to come to an understanding of such nature."

CHAPLIN'S FRIENDSHIPS

Interspersed throughout the book are interesting accounts of Chaplin's friendships with such famous personages as Fola Negri, Clare Sheridan, H. G. Wells, Bernard Shaw, Sir James Barrie, La Jana, Aimee Semple McPherson, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Paulette Goddard, the Duke of Windsor and many others.

There is an old saying that no man is a hero to his valet but for once this ancient maxim is shown to be untrue.

HERO TO HIS BUTLER

In this frankly unconventional and intimately appealing biography of the world's greatest motion picture star the author acknowledges that much of her material on which her full-fledged portrait is based was secured from Toraichi Kono who for 13 years was Chaplin's man-Friday, nurse, valet, secretary and bodyguard.

In spite of the fact that many of Kono's revelations concerning some of his master's picturesque exploits bear all the earmarks of an employee's disappointments, the fact emerges that in spite of all his grievances and complaints he cannot help regarding Chaplin as a "hero."

You'll read the life story of this great actor with interest.

'ARISE, MY LOVE' COMES TO MET SCREEN ON THURSDAY

29

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 6, 1935

ROMANTIC COMEDY STARS—Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland, stars of "Arise, My Love," discuss their future in this scene from the gay romantic comedy which comes to the Metropolitan tomorrow.

Claudette Colbert, Milland In Gay, Romantic Comedy

From romance in the clouds to kisses in the Forest of Compiègne. It is a wild and romantic path that the love story of Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland follows in their new Paramount picture, "Arise, My Love," which comes to the Met screen tomorrow.

With a setting in Europe in 1939,

"Arise, My Love" opens when Claudette snatches Ray from death before a firing squad in Spain. A girl reporter, she saves this flying fool to earn herself a big assignment, and she wins the Berlin job from her news agency.

There is a detour to the Forest of Compiègne with Ray however, and before she can get to her post war has been declared. Torpedoed in an attempt to return to America, Claudette and Ray decide to join the fight against the Nazis.

There is adventure and heart-break for both and, eventually happiness. Walter Abel plays Claudette's editor. Others in the cast are Dennis O'Keefe, Dick Purcell, George Zucco, Frank Puglia, Esther Dale, Ann Codee, Stanley Logan, Lionel Pape, Aubrey Mather and Cliff Nazarro.

"Dancing on a Dime," the second feature, is a musical comedy featuring Grace McDonald, Robert Paige, Virginia Dale and William Frawley.

Fields-McCarthy Hit on Square Bill

Square Theater's screen attractions through tomorrow are "You Can't Cheat An Honest Man," with W. C. Fields, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, and "Three SEVENTEEN DEBS and post jobs will have their first chance to see themselves as others see them at a pre-view of colored motion pictures at the Christmas Arcade next week . . .

A future Hollywood star may be discovered in these screen tests of the girls engaged in their favorite sports, which will be shown for the first time at the festive gift sale to benefit the important research into the cause and cure of arthritis conducted by the Robert Breck Brigham Hospital.

The three-day fair opens Nov. 13 in John Hancock Hall . . . Sponsored by the ladies' committee of the hospital, the arcade is being planned by Mrs. Alexander Ladd, Jr., of Milton, with the assistance of Mrs. Thomas B. Gannett and Mrs. Howard K. Thompson . . .

The "movie stars" will be Barbara Ann Paine, Virginia Grant, Susan Strong, Sally Cole, Anne Folsom, Rosamond Kent, Peggy Black, Martha Turner, Julie Falvey, Isabel Foster, Jean Roberts, Harriet Moffat, Nancy Denny, Joan Curtis, Mary Whitney, Jean Saltonstall and Lee Thacher . . .

Mrs. Helen Adams of Brookline will read the commentary accompanying the movies depicting the girls at their various hobbies, such as tennis, solitaire, Red Cross knitting and, in one instance, performing the old-fashioned pastime of cat's cradle making as taught by Robert Frost, the distinguished poet . . .

MRS. THOMAS B. GANNETT, of Milton, the former Anne Cole, is one of the attractive young matrons lending a helping hand with plans for the Christmas Arcade to benefit the Robert Breck Brigham Hospital. She is secretary of the general committee.

Notes From a Society Editor's Cuff

AFTER CASTING their votes in Hingham, their legal residence, the Robert Brewers are moving into their winter headquarters at the Hotel Puritan this week . . . Mr. and Mrs. Brewer are planning an early December dinner dance in honor of their debutante daughter, Ruth . . .

The young Hugh Bancrofts, Jr., of Cohasset, will have happy tidings of a pink and blue nature for their friends sometime early in the New Year . . .

Have you noticed . . . Mary O'Day's novel drop earrings, made of gold in the shape of tiny crosses? . . . Mrs. Francis B. Crowninshield's jeweled American flag which she wears as a patriotic accessory to her dark daytime costumes? . . . Or Frances Weld's appealing little jeweled penguin pin? . . .

Socialites Seen About Town

MRS. JOHN HALL, JR., dashing into the polling place to cast her ballot . . . her head bare above a becoming teal blue wool dress and blue and brown mixture jacket . . . Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Peabody dining at the Cafe Vendome before going on to the Ballet Russe . . . Their party included Rebecca Farnsworth in a billowy taffeta frock combining chartreuse and black; her brother, Charles; Elizabeth Timmins, escorted by Herbert Greene, and Helen Farnsworth with Eliot Farley . . .

Mrs. Stuart Rand, wearing a modish emerald green crepe dress and short blue fox jacket, was another dinner guest at the Vendome, and sitting nearby were the Nathaniel Whittiers, who came in from their Medfield home for the Ballet opening; Mr. and Mrs. William Dana Orcutt and Mrs. Russell Riley . . .

Cooking

Creole Sauce Popular

By MARTHA LEE

There are more sectional differences in American cookery than in the whole of Europe. This division is due to the many transplanted nationalities which settled America in separate regions and at separate times, bringing their native culinary culture with them. In the deep, deep South, for instance, we have Creole cookery which is a mingled heritage of French, Spanish and Choctaw Indian, and leans toward high seasoning. The fame of Creole sauce has traveled to the North, the East and the West. And the tantalizing, well-seasoned goodness of Creole Sauce makes a popular service everywhere with a wide variety of different dishes.

CREOLE SAUCE

1 small onion, sliced
1/4 cup green pepper, cut fine
2 tbsp. butter
2 tbsp. flour
1 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
2 cups tomatoes, cooked or canned

1 tbsp. lemon juice
Simmer onion and green pepper in butter 3 minutes. Stir in flour, sugar, salt and pepper. Add tomatoes. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until smooth and thick. Add lemon juice. Serve hot.

The piquancy of this sauce is particularly well adapted to service with delicately flavored foods in which class stand virtually all sea foods. Canned salmon, among the most popular and most generally available seafoods is no exception. Salmon cutlets featuring canned salmon with eggs, bread or cracker crumbs and with well-seasoned seasonings, make a festive company entrée for autumn evenings—and they are especially good when topped off with Creole Sauce.

SALMON CUTLETS WITH CREOLE SAUCE

1 lb. canned salmon
1 egg, separated
1-3 cup thick white sauce
1/2 tsp. salt
Dash pepper
2 tsp. pickle relish
1 1/2 cups dry bread crumbs
Flour

Flake salmon and combine with egg yolk and white sauce. Add seasonings, chopped pickle and half the bread crumbs. Shape into cutlets. Roll first in flour, then dip in egg white and finally in remaining bread crumbs. Fry in semi-deep fat until cutlets are golden brown. Season with parsley garnished with lemon slices. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

The following recipe is a southern version of northern Chicken Fricassee.

JAMBALAYA

5 to 6 lb. hen
2 to 3 tbsp. chicken fat, shortening, or salad oil
1 clove garlic
Few stalks celery
2 sprigs parsley
1/2 tsp. thyme
1 1/2 bay leaves
Salt, pepper, cayenne
1 1/2 cups raw rice
Joint the hen. Brown lightly in chicken fat, shortening or salad oil, parlie, celery, parsley, thyme, and bay leaves, all chopped fine. Cover with water. Season with salt, pepper and cayenne. Simmer. When chicken is tender, lift it out of

Give the Girl's Father Cigars?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: He's a good deal of an old grouch, and his growls have sent many a young man down the steps of their very charming home. It occurred to me that I might give the old man a box of cigars. Would it look too business-like?

INTERESTED

I believe a whole box of cigars might reveal your interest too plainly. Why not offer a cigar, and if he reacts, letly you might try him out with other solo offerings before presenting the entire box.

You Can Be Beautiful

Combine Tissue Stimulation With Lubrication

By ARLINE GOLD

HERE'S a new theory... and here is a pair of hand-in-glove aids, which work together in reclaiming any throatline from sagging texture and pebbly crepiness. The treatment considers a boundary line of chin to collarbone as being ineffectual and inadequate... the two aids combine over the whole face and neck... combine tissue stimulation with lubrication. It's a sound idea.

Actually, this treatment was a phenomenal success in a New York salon, so they recently decided to put it up in jars for those who couldn't stroll down Fifth Avenue and leisurely check in for one of their price-of-a-hot-treatment.

What you do is... pick up a peach-cream of a make-up mask on your fingertips and treat your face with it... this happens fifteen minutes before you intend to make-up. Now, from chin to neckline, use throat and neck cream. The first make-up mask cream is (surprise surprise, you thought it was more) $1.50. The throat and neck cream, also a good-size jar, is $2.

You'll perceive a handling feeling in neck tissues... and a neon-like glow to your face. Voilà! Remove these fragrant magicians, and your face will be radiant, your neck incredibly smooth, as though by enchantment.

It would like to learn about this unusual throat and neck treatment, which includes a facial, and both straight from a New York salon... phone Arline Gold, 1 Liberty 4003, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Remedy. It's Fine.

Quick, Comforting Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

This well-known home-mixed medicine costs very little, but it gives a lightful, swift-acting relief from coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugist. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough remedy and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time and children love its taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, you'll say it is truly wonderful. It has a remarkable action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable ginseng, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Don't Do as I Do

SYNOPSIS

What Has Happened:

SIR JOHN SANDERSON, British Intelligence chief, has learned that MARA, his ace woman agent, has betrayed important secrets to the elusive AJAX, head of the Nazi spies in England. His aide, CAPT. HUGH KENLEY, also reported that a parachutist had landed near London and vanished in an unknown girl's car.

Sir John realized that Mara's treason makes his official position desperate. He must resign or . . . As he gripped his pistol, a familiar voice outside his residential office interrupted. He slipped the weapon back into a drawer when greeting his ward, beautiful BRINDA DUNCAN, who pleads with him for war service as a spy. He is strongly opposed to this, but evades the issue.

Suddenly two shots were heard from the street, and Orderly Hunt announced that Captain Kenley had been murdered. AGENT DONOVAN, on guard duty, describes the fugitive killer as "a big fellow with a limp" who "got out of Miss Brinda's car" . . . Sir John tried to question Kenley, who managed to whisper a few words . . . Brinda told Sir John how she had given a lift to "a poor fellow with a sprained ankle" . . . He looked and talked like an Englishman.

She is directed to try and "pick him out" of an official "spy gallery" later. Brinda then receives a mysterious phone warning: "What happened to Mara? . . . Silence, or death."

Now Continue:

SHOULD she ask Sir John what the mysterious caller had suggested? Familiar with her guardian's moods since childhood, she realized he had been in deep distress when she entered his study that evening—even before his aide's murder. No, she wouldn't chance adding to his burden—not at this time, when it was so heavy. Later, perhaps, depending on future developments; or perhaps, never.

Toward the mysterious and menacing caller, she felt mingled anger and fear. How had he obtained the housekeeping number, theoretically known only to the servants, herself, Sir John, and a few trusted tradespeople? Perhaps, the call could be traced . . . She flashed the operator . . . Waited . . . In vain . . . "Sorry, Madam, you should have called sooner. We cannot trace the party now."

She turned away, walked slowly to her bedroom. She wished there were someone she could consult—someone besides Sir John. Even Aunt Vick, as she and Sir John both called the Hon. Victoria Weatherbee, who ordinarily formed the third member of the Sanderson ménage. But Aunt Vick—truly Sir John's aunt, not Brinda's—was nursing her fall asthma on the Riviera.

Besides, Brinda realized with a faint sympathetic smile, Aunt Vick wouldn't be of much help. Something had stopped in Aunt Vick when, first her husband, then her two sons, were killed in the World War.

She was still a little confused

Way to Relieve Itchy Pimples

When your skin is irritated with pimples, red blotches and other skin blemishes from external causes, and you're crazy with itching torture, here's quick relief. Get a 35c box of Peterson's Ointment at your drug-gist and apply this delightful soothing balm. Itching stops promptly. Smarting disappears. Your skin looks better, feels better. Also wonderful for itching of feet, cracks between toes. Try it.

did not occur once to Brinda to heed the anonymous warning.

Like most old army men, Sir John was an early riser. In spite of the strenuous events of the night, he was up at six, had finished his morning walk in the park of England's most dangerous enemies. Some of them, I am sorry to say, are Englishmen. But I don't deny your men's a German, so we can eliminate about half the lot! Now, if you will tell me—no well is your com—what he looked like—

"This morning when I entered my laboratory I made an amazing discovery. It was almost a bomb. I found a bomb with a time fuse. It was set for 10 minutes later. If I hadn't found it accidentally the whole building would have blown up."

"This is very serious, Mr. Sir John. I have seen Mr. Sir John."

"You were in the laboratory. You were in the laboratory. You were in the laboratory."

"Well, I kept looking at the thing, having chips try to blow you up. By the way there was a queer lighter hanging about my place the other night. I had a rather close look at him. Do you suppose I might find him in that famous spy gallery of yours?"

"Worth trying," said Sir John.

at eight and, thirty minutes later, he was in the dock in the Intelligence Office.

Kenley had been well-liked, and his tragic death had cast a shadow over the office.

As Brinda swept through the Brinda complied, searching her memory for a fairly detailed of her meeting with the parachute spy. When she had finished, Sir John nodded gravely.

"Not bad at all. About five feet, ten, I think, blonde, muscular, weight long, bald-like ante-room leading to Sir John's private office, whole platoons of male eyes popped hopefully to situation.

It was the first time that Sir John made an exception to his rule and permitted her to come to the office. She should have felt thrilled with delight, but the motive of her visit was too serious. For this one day she would be, like the Secret Service, work as one of them, searching in the files in order to see whether the mysterious parachute spy and murderer could be identified.

Brinda had only to look at her guardian to know that he was still laboring under deep anxiety.

"One moment, my dear." He scribbled his signature on a document. "Sorry to have to drag you into this, but we can't overlook any possibilities." He arose.

"Come along."

Brinda followed him into a vault-like room, guarded by a heavy iron door.

"No news of the—?" She hesitated on the word. "The murderer? None. I'm afraid we're stumped—unless you can find him here." He indicated long rows of filing cases. "These, Brinda, contain photographs or descriptions of probably 80 per cent

She by one, a succession of pictures passed before Brinda's questioning eye. . . . Young men and old girls and wrinkled creases . . . But not the man whom she had driven from Watford into London.

Brinda had been working for over an hour when Lieutenant-Commander Richard Molden from the Royal Navy was introduced to Sir John. The Colonel knew the brilliant young rocket engineer of the fleet, by reputation and asked him to come in immediately.

So, started Molden. "I suppose you know about my assignment in the scientific laboratories of Camberwell."

"I know all about it."

TORE OFF NIGHTIE, SHE SAYS

With the wife charging her husband ripped off her clothing in fits of jealousy and the husband accusing her of stepping out with another man, the case of Mrs. Elva Silva of Gloucester, was under advisement today in Salem Probate Court.

Her husband, Joseph, former PWA worker and father of her two children pulled her out of bed on one occasion, and "dragged me around and tore my night dress to pieces," Mrs. Silva testified in her suit for separate support.

She told Judge John V. Phelan that her husband had trailed her to a beach party and that when she caught sight of him in the crowd, she stole home and was in bed when he arrived.

She stated she had pretended to him that she was going to the movies, because he had forbidden her to go to the beach.

Her husband, she testified, "acted like a maniac" upon his return home.

"The sport suit he had given me as a gift was lying at the foot of the bed," she said. "I had worn it to the beach. He tore that into shreds also."

She asked Judge Phelan for custody of the children, Nancy, 9, and Marshall, 6, and for Silva to support them, but spurned any money for herself.

Silva, confessing the suit, testified she was going to mixed parties against his wishes. He said he had heard his wife was keeping company with a truck driver since she left him Aug. 2. She denied it.

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American GAME OF CHECK is open to all persons living in the New England States, New Hampshire, the Boston Record, the Boston American or Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, nor any newspaper dealer and carriers who deliver the Boston Record, the Boston American or Sunday Advertiser, nor any person acting as a proxy for another, nor any person who has won $500 or more in any contest may use a prize.

2—Beginning Monday, October 14, 1940, a Check Sheet will be published each week in the Boston American and the Boston Record. Each Check Sheet will contain three questions. Four and only four suggested answers will be printed under each question and in the daily Check Sheet. One and only one of these suggested answers is the correct answer to the question appearing above. The six Check Sheets published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen series. Answers to each week's series of questions should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor, P. O. Box 2337, c/o the Boston Record-American Game of Check. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One hundred prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes. To have 100 contestants who, by their answers, achieve the 100 highest scores. A Check Sheet will not be judged as a unit—each and every question will be judged separately. Thus a contestant will get credit for each question correctly answered. No contestant may win more than one prize. Resubmission does not count. Do not duplicate your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submission to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking questions, and, if necessary, a second, third or fourth set of tie-breaking questions. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the conduct of such tie-breaking questions. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking questions without assistance in the office of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In case of final tie duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of Check Sheets with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of Check Sheets and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest the Boston Record-American will present a special quiz booklet created by Harold Hart, author of the famous quiz volume "Invitation to Fun."

6—Any person by entering this contest understands it is a contest of individual effort and agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record-American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others, the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time before or after January 27th, the closing date, for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the establishment of time limitations, the judging of answers, the scoring of answers and the interpretation of such instructions governing individual questions as may be announced by the officials of the contest. By entering this contest participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record-American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. Not more than one prize will be awarded to members of any one immediate family. The Boston Record-American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American to the contestant.

Triumph of Principle Vs. Football Lickings

I TRUST THAT THIS WILL BE THE LAST time in this Anno-Domini that I will massage this subject. But Harvard has flopperooded in a couple of major games and will flop again this week-end against Penn. So what has happened? Immediately a minority of malcontents have thrust fluted tongues between teeth and blown burbling sounds at Prexy Conant, Director Bill J. Bingham and Dick Harlow. As though they, grown gray or bald, or slightly adipose or lean, had muffed a touchdown pass in the end zone or flubbed a tackle on the goal line.

So let's look the Harvard situation squarely in its oral cavity. Harvard has hired the best football brains in the business. Harlow has taken the kids at hand and taught them the science of their assignments, drilling and criticizing until each kid, within his physical scope, knows his job. So then, if the lads have not knocked off their share of triumphs, it should be placed firmly up to them and not to the administration.

I must be consistent about this! Because in December of 1938, after Harvard had temporarily resurrected itself from the football grave by licking Princeton and Yale for the second straight season, I handed Bingham, Pres. Conant, the Foundation and the H. A. A. grandees a bouquet for standing by amateur principles instead of indenturing the steel-puddlers, steamfitters and lumberjacks.

For though Bingham takes his orders from upstairs, he took some pretty stiff kicks in the hip pocket when Harvard was bumped by the little pie-baking and dress maker's colleges and its Ivy equals. He was buttered over as a sanctimonious idealist who had lost stride with modern makeshift. So I said then, and repeat now, that what this Age of Chizzelry needs is less gyp and more lip of the stiff upper sort. It's a tiny scale-model of principle to which this nation, in its enormous way, must return or founder into some other "ism" than idealism. And is that too high-falutin'?

They Could Have Raised an Army

HARVARD, MEANING CONANT and the H. A. A. daddies, could have cut corners during the depths of their football depression. For there are Harvard magnates with bank-bins of spare cash and enough varsity devotion to take first mortgages on a band of bony kids and still stay tactfully silent about the matter. Other colleges in Harvard's social circle were, and are, doing it by devious methods and, in the epic grammar of that blond witch of Hollywood, 'twere not sin. Elsewhere the football bubble has been blown to the size of a baby blimp and coaches, armed with search-warrants, are whacking the woods for school kids of magnificent setup and just enough intelligence to fool the registrar.

Yeh! Harvard might have murmured into the right ears and presto! a quorum of freshmen hetties would have waltzed in and taken courses in toy-whittling, ceramics and settee-sitting and stayed to become hirs-

HANK GREENBERG NAMED MOST VALUABLE IN A. L.

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 6, 1940

For his outstanding role in helping the Detroit Tigers win the American League pennant, Henry Greenberg, affectionately known to baseball fans the world over as Hank, was selected as the American League.

In the annual poll conducted by the Baseball Writers' Association of America the hard-hitting outfielder from New York registered 292 points to win the most valuable player title, for the second time in his career.

Bob Feller, speedball pitcher, first of the recalcitrant Clevelands, was the writers' second choice with 222 points and Joe DiMaggio, the New York Yankees sensational outfielder and last year's most valuable player, was third with 151 points.

RECEIVED 16 FIRST VOTES
Pitcher Buck Newsum, another important figure in Detroit's uphill climb to the first flag won by an American League team other than the Yankees in four years, barely beat out Lou Boudreau, the Indians time freshman shortstop for fourth place honors. Old Hobo finished with 120 points as against 119 for his young rival.

The selection committee, composed of 24 writers from eight cities in the Junior Circuit, voted on a basis of 14 points for each first place; nine points for each second; eight points for each third and so on down, the tenth choice counting for one point. In addition, ten names were selected for honorable mention.

In the balloting, Greenberg received 16 first place votes, seven seconds and one sixth and Feller won six firsts, 12 seconds, one third, one fourth, two sixths and one eighth.

CONVERTED OUTFIELDER

Big Hank's repeat is all the more spectacular when it is considered he was converted from a first baseman to an outfielder at the beginning of this season. In 1935 when previously cited by the writers, Greenberg was playing first base for the Tigers.

Although no Ty Cobb, Greenberg, who was born on New Year's Day, 19 years ago, played an adequate game at his new post and the change had no effect on his powerful hitting. According to unofficial averages, Hank batted a lusty .340 for the season and knocked in 150 runs.

Injury Jinx Robs Harvard Of MacKinney

AUSTEN LAKE

Loren MacKinney, Harvard's most publicized football player, as on the shelf and may see little in any action against the powerful Penn Quakers at Philly Saturday. The news that Mack might be sidelined came as a shock to the Harvard coaches following on the heels of Capt. Joe Gardella's loss.

The loss of the great Tar Heel, who has been a sensation for the Crimson in an otherwise drab season, means that Harvard has no chance against Penn.

KICKING SAVED HARVARD

It was hoped that the punts of MacKinney would be enough to keep the potent Penn out of Harvard territory a good share of the game. A glance at the Harvard kicking statistics will show that: Loren not only put on the most brilliant kicking performance by a Harvard player in more than a decade, but also that his sensational punting saved the Harvards in their contest with Princeton.

Against Dartmouth MacKinney averaged 51 yards from the line of scrimmage and 43 with the heavy soggy ball in last Saturday's mud mauling game.

If MacKinney is unable to see any action, the Harvard coaches will start soph Bill Barnes at left end and George Heiden at blocking back. MacKinney has been Harvard's best defensive end and their leading pass catcher.

WALDSTEIN BEST KICKER

A troubling by the 100 and Blue may mean that the battered and tired Cantabs will lose the rest of their games and thereby ending the season with a record of a win over Amherst and tie contests with Princeton and Army.

The starting berth at bucking back is still in doubt and Dick Harlow may not make his final decision until game time, but in practice sessions this week, hard driving Mort Waldstein has been given the call at the important spinning position. Bill Brown has the edge on experience but the fact that Mort is the second best punter on the Harvard squad may give him the starting job.

Waldstein, 195 soph from Brookline, is a hard runner and an outstanding punter. It remains to be seen whether he can acquire enough finesse in the spinning berth before the game in order to warrant the starting choice.

38 Southie Slugger Enters All-America Trial Bouts

Steve Kronis of South Boston, state and Golden Gloves featherweight champion, is the first headliner to enter the opening round of the New England all-America championships, which will be staged by the Irish-American A. A. at the Arena next Monday night.

Kronis proved he was in great trim the other night when he kayaked Mert Hunt of Revere in one round and Jackie Heard of South End in the second round of the open-novice show at the Arena.

MEETS FAST COMPANY

He's a two-fisted puncher, and should go far in these all-America bouts. He will find himself in fast company, however, for other boys entered in next Monday's show are William Hill and Pal Morello, both from Haverhill, 118 open; Sam Di Vincenzo, Golden Gloves lightweight champion, Jimmy Medis and Dim Ti Mssao, East Boston, all in the 135 open; James Harvey, middleweight from South Boston.

There will be bouts in 12 classes Monday, eight open and four novice, as follows: open, 112, 118, 136, 153, 177, 190, 175 and heavyweight; novice 112, 126, 147 and 175 pounds.

FINALS ON DEC. 9

Winners in each of Monday's 12 classes, in addition to the winners in the elimination shows to be held Nov. 15 and 25 and Dec. 2, will qualify for the grand finals of the New England All-America championships, to be held at Boston Garden, Dec. 9.

Further recognition will be given the champions crowned on Dec. 9 by having them represent Boston in the Eastern All-America Championships at Boston Garden Dec. 18 when they clash with champions from New York, Buffalo, Albany and Baltimore.

HARMON GETS CHANCE TO REDEEM '39 FAILURE

By BILL GRIMES

One of the most critical days of the college season is coming up on Saturday, with the Michigan-Minnesota clash, which will bring together two undefeated and untied eleven, the feature attraction. Due to the decision of the University of Chicago to abolish football, the Wolverines had an open date last week and Fritz Chrysler's Wolverines should be in perfect mental and physical condition for the Gophers.

On the other hand, Minnesota went through a tough 13 to 12 free-for-all with Northwestern. But, a year ago, the Gophers stopped Mr. Tom Harmon and were awarded a 20 to 7 verdict. In that contest, Harmon had a poor day because Minnesota was hitting him so hard that he was fumbling.

On Saturday, Tom Harmon will have a double incentive to step at his prettiest out in Minneapolis. He'll be playing to help Michigan win the "Big Nine" conference title and to prove to the Gophers that he's the most consistent ball carrier in the college ranks.

STANFORD ON SPOT

Among the other colleges which might bow out of the elite class this week-end are Stanford, Texas A. and M. and possibly Notre Dame.

Clark Shaughnessy's White Indians at Stanford have a real opponent in the Huskies of the University of Washington at Palo Alto. Stanford is the only Pacific Coast Conference eleven with a perfect record. The Huskies were beaten by Minnesota 19 to 13 at Minneapolis in their opening game.

The Mustangs of Southern Methodist have been waiting a year to avenge that 2 to 1 setback they suffered at the hands of Texas A. & M. and Saturday they hope to stop long John Eric Kimbrough at Dallas. The Aggies have weathered 17 games without a defeat and, with the exception of a draw at Pitt, the Mustangs have set a perfect record for this season.

MIDDIES REALLY TOUGH

Judging from what happened in the Yankee Stadium last Saturday, Navy might rebound and knock off Notre Dame down at Baltimore. The Middies were going great guns until they were hit with a broadside by Penn. If the Irish fail to show to better advantage than they did against Army, they're not long for the undefeated, untied group.

Boston College, Georgetown, Cornell and Tennessee should continue as members of the "Un and Un" club for at least another week. The Eagles will take their final work out before meeting Georgetown against Pat Hanley's Terriers. Coach Jack Haggerty will stress the fact that Maryland was the last team to beat the Hoyas (Oct. 1937), the Ithacans will run roughshod over Eli Yale and the Vols have a push-over in Northwestern.

In the event that the Crusaders were enjoying a successful season, the Holy Cross-Mississippi game at Fitton Field would draw fans from all sections of New England. But, it requires two good, no one, elevens to induce cash customers to lay it on the line these days.

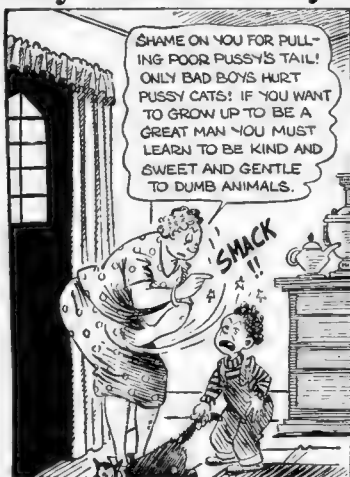

However, with Harvard down in Philadelphia, hoping against hope to remain within hailing distance of Penn. and Boston College and Boston University the local attraction, the Holy Cross-Ole Miss affair is still entitled to top billing for this section.

Over at Medford, Lou Manley's Jumbos will be the hosts to the University of New Hampshire and Jimmy Dunn and his Northeastern Huskies will be at Manchester, N. H. the guests of Cleo O'Donnell and St. Anselm's.

Hoping that the breaks will con-

Amherst Points For Williams

AMHERST, Nov. 6—Having once more stepped back into the win column with a 14-0 triumph over their town rivals, Massachusetts State after a 14-6 loss to their Little Three opponents, Wesleyan, on the previous week-end, the Lord Jeffs of Amherst this week settled down to prepare for the Trinity clash at Hartford Saturday.

The Trinity game will be the 10th in the long series which dates back to 1886 and which finds the Jeffs ahead in victories, 23-8, with eight games having ended in ties. The Connecticut team has not been able to defeat the Jeffs since 1933 when they came through with a 7-6 win.

SMITH'S ANKLE SPRAINED

Saturday's game with Mass. State, played under the worst conditions seen in this area in many a year, showed that the Jeffs certainly did not allow the loss to a powerful Wesleyan team (which for some unknown reason had been floundering around up until the time of the Amherst game) to bother them and went right out and exhibited the same spirit and determination which has characterized this small and inexperienced team this season.

Substitute back Roland Smith, who suffered an ankle sprain in the final quarter of the game, was the victim of the only severe injury which struck the Jeffs in this game.

POINTING FOR WILLIAMS

With the annual season's closer against Williams fast approaching, the Jeffs are pointing to this game with Trinity for two reasons. First, because they know that these Hartford aggregations annually are of a high caliber and always present considerable opposition in themselves, and also because this Trinity game will provide the Jeffs with their final test before the day when they meet Williams in an attempt to do what they can to avenge the 1938 defeat which the Caldwell-coached Ephs hung on them at Williamsstown a year ago.

Belmont's Carroll Twins Ready To Bring Track Honors to N. U.

The Rideout twins of North Texas Teachers' College have been stealing altogether too much of the track spotlight to suit the Carroll twins of Northeastern. As soon as the winter track season starts, the Husky look-

Boston Evening American Photo

TELL 'EM APART? They might be like Mike, they look so much alike, but they are Northeastern's deerfoot twins, Bob and Bill Carroll of Belmont. Only sophs, they're already in the 4:20's for the mile, and bid fair to eclipse the fame of the Rideout twins before they finish their collegiate track careers.

Just for the records, the Belmont boys really have done things already, so their future is extremely bright.

Bob defeated Harlan Woods of the B. A. A. in a 4.24 mile last year, and that clocking was its fastest of the Greater Boston outdoor season. Twin Bill turned in a 4.27 effort, also pretty good going in any competition.

BOB TALKS TO BILL

Oddly enough, the Northeastern stringbeans have been running only about three years. That is, they have been running on a formal basis only that long. Actually they sowed the seeds of their athletic careers when they were 10 years old, when they formed the Irish American A. C.

That club had three members, the two Carrolls and another Belmont youngster who looked enough like them to be their brother.

The boys had paper routes, lugged bundles from grocery stores, and did various odd jobs, but they still had enough ambition to run at night.

The Carrolls had so much outside work that they didn't run in junior high, but Bob went out for track in high school and was elected captain of the sport in his junior year.

He fell in gym class and suffered an injury that kept him out of competition, but he talked brother Bill into trying for the team.

Just to be agreeable, Bill reported to Coach Mel Wenner and immediately was bitten by the track bug. Running against seasoned competitors in the Worcester Interscholastics, he won the mile in 4:41, and he finished second in the state meet half-mile in 2 minutes 25 seconds.

BOTH STAND 6:4

Bob rejoined Bill at Northeastern last winter, and they both ran for the standard Husky freshman team. They really hit their stride last summer, when they wore the colors of the B. A. A. After a year of college running, they were all set for the outside competition.

Bob's stunning mile races with Woods were the features of the 1940 season. His victory at Newton marked the only defeat for Woods outdoors. Woods beat Bob by a foot for the New England A. A. U. crown in 4:27, and Harlan beat Bill by about the same margin in the city of Boston games.

Bill is running cross country at Northeastern this fall, but Bob is waiting for the indoor season. They should give Northeastern a gradual team, for they can turn the half, the mile, or both.

They stand 6:4, weigh about 145, and can't be told apart.

They don't expect any college opposition to recognize them any way, because they fondly hope that their opponents will be getting a back view of them all the time.

inure to favor his charges, Coach "Tuss" McLaughry will turn his Brown Bears loose against the Army Mule at West Point. With victories over Holy Cross and Yale to their credit, the Bruinians must put on a good show for the Corps, particularly in view of the fact that it will be their first football appearance at "The Point" in 25 years.

The Big Green will be at Princeton seeking its second major victory of the season. The Indians of the North must shackle Dave Alford and Bob Peters to win but they got one break, Bob Jackson was hurt in the Harvard game and will watch the game from the side lines.

Bowdoin and Maine will wind up their state series tests at Brunswick Saturday. The Polar Bears were tied by the Colby Mules but beat Bates, so going into this game they'll be deadlocked with Al McCoy's boys of Waterville. The final game of the Maine State series will be played between Colby and Bates at Lewiston, Armistice Day.

B.C. STARS Barry Wins TO HONOR N. U. Berth LITTLE FAN Back Again

Little Joe Coffey of Newton is longingly looking forward to 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. At that time nine year old Joey, recent victim of a hit-and-run driver, will be presented an autographed football by members of the nationally famous Boston College grid squad at the Newton Hospital.

Joey, who sustained a fractured skull, a broken leg and serious internal injuries when he was injured near his Pearl at home on the very day that his Boston College heroes were tramping St. Anselm at Alumni Field, wasn't given much chance to live when he was carried into the hospital.

When he regained consciousness his first concern was his favorite Eagles. When the Eagles heard about this their first concern was Joey. Graduate Manager of Athletics John P. Curley ordered a brand new football, had Head Coach Frank Leahy and his assistant and the entire Eagle squad autograph it and arranged for some of the Eagles to visit with little Joe.

The visit will take place tomorrow.

Ed Barry, versatile three-sport star from Wellesley, will be back in his starting wingback spot for Northeastern against St. Anselm on Saturday at Manchester, N. H.

Barry was dropped last week by Flanny Murray, Winchester sophomore, but Ed did so well in the closing minutes against the Jumbos that he soon has place back again. Barry looked particularly strong on reverse plays and as a forward pass receiver.

Charlie Abend of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., returned to his regular guard post, so the Huskies will be very nearly at full strength for the Hawk game. Jim Jefferson of Belmont is the only man who definitely will be out of the game.

Both Jefferson and Abend were injured in the game against Upsala, but Charlie has responded to treatment. He is a senior, so is very right in the middle of the action. He did not dress for the Tufts game last week.

The Huskies are working on their forward passing plays in an effort to upset the Hawks.

Kaplan Moans on Lost Chance

Merry Mike Kaplan of Roxbury, who fights George Martin, South End, for the N. E. welterweight championship at the Boston Garden a week from tomorrow night, Nov. 14, has one regret—that he didn't get to Henry Armstrong before Fritz Zivic.

Kaplan is the N. E. welterweight king, having taken the title from Frankie Britt, and says he would today be the world's 147-pound champion had he gotten the shot at Armstrong instead of Zivic.

WHEN UNSCRUPULOUS sure-thing gamblers, who make a specialty of running "ringers," pick a spot to operate they pass up Rockingham Park. They know that at the Salem, N. H. track Lou Smith has installed the Wright & Leighton national detective system which has control of a "ringer" proof system.

A "ringer" is one of the menaces of every race track. The get-rich-quick gamblers ship a horse to a track under an assumed name. The "ringer" in appearance looks like the horse whose name he plans to race under.

The "ringer" is usually a higher priced horse than the one whose name he assumes. He is dropped into a cheap race, and when the money is down in the mutuels and in books in all parts of the country he races to an easy victory. The "ringer" is shipped away from the track before anyone becomes aware of what has happened.

"There was the case in Maryland a few years ago," said Arthur C. Leighton, "where the legitimate horse and the 'ringer' were at the track at the same time. The real horse was kept warmed up in the barn area. As soon as the race was run, the 'ringer' was shipped away in a waiting van. When the track officials went to the barn area to check up on the identity of the horse, they found the legitimate one in his own barn as if cooling off after a hard race, and they were baffled until the mystery was cleared up."

"I secured information at one time that spongers had been working on Airframe, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's horse. This accounted for several of the horse's poor races. I called the matter to the attention of Vanderbilt. Airframe was then guarded, and later went on to win several important stakes. Vanderbilt sent me $500 for my services."

2000 Pictures Taken at Rockingham

WHEN A HORSE arrives at Rockingham, he is checked in by agents working for Wright & Leighton.

"Who is in charge of the van? Who shipped the horse in?" These questions are always asked.

The horse is checked for markings. During the two Rockingham meetings, 2000 pictures have been taken of horses and all markings noted.

"Dr. Leo R. McKinney, a veterinarian, is in the paddock before each race," said Leighton, "and he checks the horses by their photographs and markings. In time we hope to have the picture and the markings of every horse racing."

"The sure-thing gamblers know we are on the job, and so they give Rockingham Park a wide berth." James W. Wright, like Leighton, has been around race tracks for most of his life. These two men know every questionable character that has been connected with a racing "fix" and they make it impossible for them to operate at tracks with which they are associated.

Former G-Man at Rockingham Park

HARRY KATZ, former aid to Edgar Hoover, is associated with Wright & Leighton at Rockingham Park. In the days of prohibition, Katz was a leading factor in two dozen of the most important liquor investigations conducted by the G-men.

As racing grew in popularity, Katz joined the Wright & Leighton service. As race-goers enter Rockingham Park, Harry Katz's eyes are upon them. At times Harry will leave his post and ask some person to drop around to his office.

"We don't want you around here," Harry will say. "The sooner you get on your way the better."

Two former world champions will wrestle it out at the Arena tonight for the privilege of meeting The Angel, current titleholder.

Tonight's combatants are Ed Don George, Adonis from North Java, N. Y., and Yvon Robert, from Montreal.

George has been around a long, long time. In fact it was none other than Ed Don who dethroned the most popular champion of all time, Gus Sonnenberg, when they

Gus has gone over the hill since, but George is still around, and wrestling apparently as well as ever.

Robert has youth on him, to be sure, but George's greater knowledge of the game is expected to offset this advantage.

The bout is one of the co-features of Paul Bower's weekly show. The other, Man Mountain Dean will take on Herbie Freeman of New York and the Man Mountain is expected to extend his winning streak.

Lack of Reserves To Hamper B. U.

September plans of coaches often mean little when November rolls around.

Just about two months ago Coach Pat Hanley had a fairly good idea of his starting Boston University lineup and would have named the first eleven for the Boston College game at Fenway Park next Saturday with little trouble.

He would have had Captain Jim McDonald and George Murphy at the ends; Johnny Wedemeyer and Eddie Rooney at the tackles; Charlie Cremens and Ken Skoropowski at the guards with Sid Michaels at center.

CAPTAIN SIDELINED

Either Johnny Conneaney or George Pantano would have been at quarterback with Jim Cassidy and Al Clark flanking Ralph Salvati at fullback.

But the lineup this week-end will be far from the plans of the Terrier mentor last September.

Only George Murphy, Sid Michaels and Charlie Cremens remain in the forward wall. Capt. Jim McDonald is sidelined with a bad shoulder; Wedemeyer has given up football; Skoropowski and Rooney are through for the year with injuries.

LACK RESERVES

In the backfield Charlie Thomas has moved into left halfback and Frankie Provinzano has replaced Al Clark who had his collarbone broken. Salvati pulled a tendon which gave the fullback job to

Williams and nobody has been able to move him out.

The September team was potentially the greatest Boston University ever had but injuries ruined all high hopes.

Newcomers who have stepped into regular jobs have done well, but the reserve problem is so acute that most of the boys have to go as long as possible.

In fact Coach Pat Hanley believes his starting club will give a good account of itself Saturday against Boston College until the superior weight and reserve of the Eagles start to wear them down.

2 Navy Backs Ready for Irish

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 6—

Smarting from being tossed out of the ranks of the unbeaten by Penn, Navy's gridiron squad started work for Saturday's game with Notre Dame in Baltimore with high hopes of upsetting the unbeaten Irish. Quarterback Johnny Harrel, who missed the Penn game due to injuries, may not be ready for action Saturday, but Willis Maxson, regular end, and Ken Steen, regular tackle, who missed the game with the Quakers, were both back in uniform ready for action.

42 St. Columbkilles Climbing School Football Ladder

By SAM BROGNA

They're not world beaters, as the record shows, but for spirit and a great desire to play football St. Columbkilles High's small band of gridmen are the champions of the world.

BIG THREE. Bill "Red" Hazel, St. Columbkilles' High coach, with his veteran dependables, Paul Curran, right guard, and Captain Tom Finnegan, quarterback.

This small Catholic school in Brighton, scene of old-time Lincoln-Riverdale football feuds, is playing its fourth season of competitive football and is gradually climbing the scholastic gridiron ladder.

And the total enrollment at the school is only 75!

After three years, in which the teams took plenty of pushing around, it looks as if it soon will be up with Malden Catholic, Cathedral and Mission before long.

LOST GRID STARS

It wasn't like that before Fr. John Frawley came to Brighton. Prior to his advent in Brighton, St. Columbkilles had no competitive sports and lost a number of athletes because of that.

Paul Toomey, former all-Scholastic at High School of Commerce and a standout at Boston College; John Sullivan, also an all-scholastic at Commerce, who went on to gain an end berth on the all-New England eleven while performing for Holy Cross; "Chick" Lee, who went to Commerce and Kent's Hill; Jim Lillis of B. C. and Charlie McCarthy, a Brighton High star and a graduate last year of B. C., who now is coaching St. John's High of Danvers are some of the players who left the little Catholic school and went elsewhere so they could play football.

But no more of that if Fr. Frawley has his way.

The good cleric installed Bill "Red" Hazel as coach last year, and that was an admirable selection.

Hazel, life long resident of Brighton and All-Scholastic center for three years in a row at High School of Commerce, is one of the hardest of workers.

And he knows his football, too, as Dr. Eddie Anderson will tell you. Hazel played for three years under Dr. Eddie at Holy Cross.

Red has done a bang-up job considering everything. His eleven dropped the first game, 21 to 43, to St. Mary's of Waltham but that really was a moral victory because there are only 20 boys on the squad so that they can't even hold a scrimmage.

However, with practically all sophomores and juniors on the squad, St. Columbkilles expects to be ready for Catholic League competition another year.

ALL YOUNGSTERS

Capt. Tom Finnegan, playing his third season, heads the courageous band. Tom is the quarterback and does all the line bucking. His backfield mates are Fran McCormack, Tom Walsh and "Whitey" O'Connor.

McCormack, a senior, handles most of the carrying. Walsh, a junior, is the passer and kicker, and O'Connor, who started as a guard, does all the blocking. And they're all ironmen. They have to be.

The center is Dan Kennedy, a junior. Flanking him are Paul Curran, senior, and John Baggett, junior. Flanking him are Paul Curran and Joe Walton, both sophomores. Walton, despite his inexperience, is considered the top man on the team. He's a bear on defense and breaks through the opposition continually to nail the ball carrier for a loss. The heaviest man on the squad, he tips the scales at only 165.

Gerry Leshman and Bob Marquis, junior and senior respectively, are the ends.

The reserve list has Flaherty, Callahane, and Glyn, ends; Hickey and Laffey, tackles; O'Connell and Kinnealy, guards; and Bowen and Lowe, two late comers, the former a back and the latter a center.

Driscoll, who started the season at fullback but was injured in the first game against St. Mary's of Waltham, has been sidelined for the remainder of the season.

RULES GOVERNING THE FOOTBALL CONTEST

The object of the Daily Record-American Football Contest is to select winners of twenty collegiate football games to be played each Saturday, anyone may enter the contest excepting employees of the Record-American and their families.

The selection is held on the short form which is ready to be filled out by the contestant. Simply place an (X) in the space nearest the name of the team you think will win, or if you predict a tie place the letter (T) in the space nearest the names of the tying teams.

Calculate the AVERAGE score of all competing teams, except that for which you predict a tie. Write winners' and losers' average score in space provided in coupon. Do not write individual scores in spaces or on the coupon. Indicate average scores only by adding scores of all teams, and then divide the total by the number of teams competing.

Only ONE solution may be entered by a contestant. All entries must be in the office of the Record-American not later than Midnight Friday, the day before the game.

You need not buy a copy of the Record-American to enter the contest. Fractions of the contest form may be made from copies in the public library or in the Record-American office. Such entries will be acceptable and given equal consideration with those clipped from these newspapers.

A prize of $100.00 will be awarded the person whose entries contain all selections correct. If more than one person submits perfect solutions, $100.00 will be awarded the tying contestant whose average score tabulations most nearly match with actual average scores on the games. If no perfect list of solutions is entered $50.00 will be awarded to the contestant having the nearest number of selections correct and should two or more contestants tie for this prize the tying contestant submitting the most nearly correct average scores will receive the prize. Twenty-five awards of $1.00 each will be given the twenty-five contestants whose entries contain in succession, the next largest number of correct solutions and whose average scores most nearly match the actual scores of the games.

Winners of each week's contest will be announced on the Monday, nine days after the game. The decision of the judges in all cases shall be final.

All entries in the Record-American Football Contest Editor, P. O. Box 1897, Boston, Mass.

In the event of postponement of any of the games, such games will automatically be excluded from the contest. In the event that the planned date of any game scheduled is changed, then that game is automatically excluded.

EAGLES' SPEED, SIZE AWES JASPER COACH

NEW YORK, Nov. 6 (INS) — Herb Kopf, coach of Manhattan, was still open-mouthed with wonder at the size and speed of the Boston College team, when he showed up at the football writers luncheon.

"Terrific is no word for that team," he marvelled. "It's hard to believe that a club that big could be so fast, even in the mud. It's the biggest team in the country. I know it's bigger than the New York Giants, because we scrimmaged against the Giants."

"They've got that fellow Gladchuk listed as a 230 pounder. But he weighed himself in his uniform after the game and tipped the beam at 260. And this big Mike Holovak, their halfback . . . something funny happened around him. Our Ted Mazur, who weighs 148, tried to take him out of a play. Holovak just gave a little twitch and knocked him away, and said 'Stay away from me, boy.'"

"Yep, it's a terrific team. They would have hurt us badly if that mud didn't cushion us. They must have thought we were Georgetown, the way they went after us. And, incidentally, that B. C. Georgetown game will be one of the best games of the year."

H. C. FACES ANOTHER DODSON

When Adrian Dodson of Louisiana State scored three touchdowns and passed for a fourth last month, Holy Cross thought they'd seen the last of the Dodson family of Columbus, Mississippi.

The joke appears to be on them. The reserve tailback on the University of Mississippi team at Worcester this Saturday will be Leslie, another Dodson, and the big brother of the Louisiana Stater.

This particular Dodson has the misfortune to be playing on the same team and at the same position as Junius Hovious, Ole Miss' three-star tailback. Otherwise Dodson would be a big noise in the Rebels' offense.

SCORED 91 YARD RUN

Foremost among Dodson's exploits this season was a rousing touchdown run of 91 yards with an Arkansas kickoff. Barring Hovious' 56-yard scamper with a Georgia punt that is the longest scoring run made by a Mississippi player this season.

Like his kid brother over at L. S. U. (Leslie is a senior at Ole Miss. Adrian, a sophomore at Louisiana) Les. Brother pitches, punts and pedals. He has thrown two touchdowns passes to this juncture. Mississippi employs the two-team system, and Holy Cross will have another Dodson on its hands for at least 20 or 30 minutes on Saturday afternoon.

Boston scribbles who journeyed to New Orleans with Boston College last month motored to Baton Rouge to see an outstanding Mississippi team host Louisiana State. With them was Frank Leahy whose team whipped Tulane that afternoon. Mississippi's night-game power impressed him.

B. C. COACH LAUDS OLE MISS

"I thought Mississippi was as good a Notre Dame-styled team as you could hope to see," recalls Leahy. "They're beautifully drilled up. Harlow, fake deceptively and their line is big and fast enough to trouble any team."

The Ole Miss titans are Capt. George (Grumpy) Kinard, 200-pound guard and kid brother of Frank (Bruiser) Kinard, Brooklyn Dodger tackle; Romeo Popp of Detroit, blocking back and glue-fingered receiver; Merle Alison Hapes, fullback who has scored 42 points; and Junius Hovious, opt. field artist and passing genius whose singular efforts won the Georgia, Louisiana State and Vanderbilt contests. sute sophomores with gun-metal chins. Indeed Harvard could be going down to Philadelphia this week-end with a load of dynamite to explode under Penn. Think of that!

Well, they didn't and he didn't although stacks of stomach ache letters piled up on the H. A. A. desk and the Joe Alumni snivelled and the journals sneered and the cartoonists pictured Harlow with heavenly eye-bollings and an Easter-lily in his fist.

That period, like this period, was painful, but Conant and his colleagues stuck to amateur gospel and nursed the notion, not shared in most circles, that Harvard had enough male boyhood to dish it out as well as take it. Perhaps in 1934 they did dip a knee to alumni, press and public pressure by inviting Harlow to come to Harvard. Harlow had what they wanted—brains, scruples, personality and ability.

And even there they took a boot in the britches from their own student daily and comic sheet, The Crimson Jerred. "Maybe a few tufts on Soldiers Field have escaped Bingham's broom," The Lampton wisecracked, "Where is Western Maryland?" The growing pains department of college journalists, never very crude or funny against the adult standard, stirred up such a bleat that President Albert Norman Ward of Western Maryland snapped, "It should be beneath Harvard dignity to smirch another institution as a shady football syndicate." It should!

Grabbing Back the Diadem

IT WAS ASSUMED AT THE TIME that Harvard hired Harlow that it was hiring a builder who would be given the necessary implements to shape his structure. It was remarked, "You don't commission a contractor without furnishing the needed sand, stone and mortar." Now was the time, said the critics to marshal the burly nomads and school Goliaths. Bring on your beebes!

But Conant and Co. stood steady. They refused to grant any pants-pressing concessions or A. A. monopolies or table waiting patronages for incoming, indigent heroes. As always the Harvard doors were left open suggestively, and if a kid wished to stroll in under his own power with shoulders like he had tea-kettles up his sleeves—if he had the necessary credits, tuition cash and wherewithal to sustain life, he could stay as long as he didn't shop-lift or climb porches or tangle with the campus cops. Conant took the singular attitude that he was running a brain factory and not an autumn carnival. Odd, eh wot?

Harlow's first two teams took some liberal drubblings, despite the sophisticated system which had galloped to glory in his previous connections. So the editorial blacksmiths got out the bellows and sledges and began forging typographical slugs. Others clamored for a little honest phengling. Still others openly advocated recruiting.

But in '37 and to a less degree in '38 when Harlow and Harvard collaborated to rap out some nifty victories it was termed by the same critics a "triumph of office principle" and Harvard men and the sport swamis began tossing halos at Jim, Bill and Dick, like sideshow yekels ringing canes with dolly hoops. Jim, Bill and Dick, pillaged for principle, earned their golden hoops the hard way! So now, on the up of a second football depression, it seems inconsistent to snatch those halos back and resuming kicks at their hip pockets. Whether we like it or whether we don't, Harvard still sheds a candle light of virtue in a pretty naughty football world. And whether we like it or don't, that standard is one which America in its vaster way, must come back to—the rejection of chicanery, duplicity and monkey business in minor and major things.

4 EAGLES DROPPED BY GRIPPE

Just when it seemed that the Boston College grid squad was going to sport one of the lightest hospital lists in its history, four Eagles—Henry Toczykowski, Joe Repko, Al Fiorentino and Rocco Canale—were felled by one swoop of la grippe. The quartet, apparently victims of the cold rain which fell during the Manhattan game last Saturday, are confined to bed.

To add to Repko's misery, he is suffering from an ulcerated tooth. Dr. Frank Merrick, team physician, expects the boys to be ready for the inter-city clash with the Pat Hanley Terriers.

But if Toczykowski, Repko, Fiorentino and Canale aren't available for the game Boston College's stock will slump tremendously.

Without Repko and Fiorentino the guard strength drops off appreciably and Canale is an important piece of tackle property. But the loss of Toczykowski would be a catastrophe. The "Hammer" is that mighty and Head Coach Frank Leahy is the first to admit this.

"He gives the lads a lift every time he steps into the lineup," says Coach Leahy.

For three years Toczykowski, who was honored by his teammates when he was elected to captain the Eagles against traditional rival Holy Cross this season, has been, as one writer so ably dubbed him, the "Mr. Necessity" of the Boston College eleven.

Without Toczykowski's able generalship the Eagle offense is often a dead thing to watch. Without the Lynn boy's teeth jarring blocking the Eagle running attack isn't the beautiful thing that it has been in piling up 240 points in six games. Without Hank's spirit, zip and drive Boston College would be lost.

With or without Toczykowski in the Eagle backfield, Pat Hanley's B. Uers are bound to give Boston

SPORT-O-GRIMES

Influential alumni of Boston College should render a helping hand to Luke Urban, who is a candidate for a coaching berth at Duffee High School, Fall River, and who seems to be getting the well known run around. The Fall River, opponents to Urban's appointment claim that the former Eagle is not qualified. At least that is alleged to be their objection.

Is Gus Marker, the Maple Leaf right winger off to another tough luck season? . . . He was carved in the first period of the Toronto-Ranger tilt and played the remainder of the game with his head encased in one of Tim Daly's best turbans . . . Coach Frank Leahy is headed for a sad week-end. No, the Terriers won't stop the Eagles. But, on Sunday, Ed McKeever will submit his scouting reports on Georgetown.

Do you know that because he wouldn't study in high school that Jack Barry, the Crusaders' baseball coach, who was one of the greatest of all time short stops, was sent to Holy Cross on Jan. 5, 1905? Although he gave him a demerol handicap of almost a full semester, Jack caught up with them by graduation day. For three years, John McLaughry played under his father, "us" at Brown . . . For the next three years, Bob, the younger son, who is now a freshman at Dartmouth, will play against his father's Brunonians . . . And, although John was a great college football player, you can't convince anyone at Hanover that Bob isn't entitled to the call over his older brother.

Just because you don't hear Jack Onslow on the air, do not think that Handsome John is idling away his time. He's busily engaged running down every tip he receives on young ball players. However, he has arranged to do some hunting with "Red" Rolfe, the Yankee third sacker.

George Volmer has been the greenskeeper at the Hatherly Country Club for 21 years . . . With Brown, Penn, Princeton and Navy to play, Army's chances of acquiring a playmate for that Williams victory aren't so good . . . We'll be very much surprised if Harvard doesn't battle up Brown . . . Dick Harlow is far too smart a football coach to let any club, which hasn't a passer or a kicker, knock off any team he's handling.

The Bruins will arrive in town this evening . . . They are coming down from Montreal on the day train . . . They'll hold a practice session tomorrow at the Arena . . . It was very thoughtful of Lester Patrick to let his brother Frank, the new major domo of Les Canadiens, have Bert Gardiner, the goalie.

There is never any argument. A word from Harry Katz is sufficient.

This is one of the reasons why questionable characters give Rockingham Park a wide berth. They don't like to look into Harry Katz's eyes. These former G-men of Edgar Hoover have a very convincing manner about them.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt and other leading track owners, like Lou Smith, have recognized the value of a good identification system on horses. They know that this is the best way to prevent "ringers" from popping down in front.
